IN THE BEE TO-DAY

WEATHER.

U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau,
Toledo, O., 8 a. m., March 1.

The local forecast for to-day is snow, clearing in the evening, colder. For Wednesday, fair, colder.

The storm center which was over Toledo yesterday has moved southeastward and is now over the coast states. The "high" area is central over the upper lakes and will give us clearing weather by night and colder in the morning. The temperature will probably reach 18 degrees above. Another "low" or storm center is developing in Montana. It will probably produce cloudy and slightly warmer weather Thursday evening, and rain or snow Friday evening. The cold wave following yesterday's storm is in the St. Lawrence valley with a minimum temperature of 4 degrees below zero. As a result of yesterday's storm one inch of rain fell last night at New York and Buffalo, an inch and six-tenths; 1.6 fell in Washington.

The highest temperature in the United States to-day is 48 degrees at Galveston. The range in temperature between the gulf and the lower lakes is only 20 degrees (48 degrees-28 degrees). The highest temperature in Toledo yesterday was 41; the lowest this morning was 28 degrees. Total rainfall, one-fourth inch.

Washington, March 1.—Forecast for Ohio and Indiana: Local snows, followed by fair weather Wednesday; colder Wednesday morning; northerly winds.

For Illinois: Generally fair Wednesday, with winds shifting to southeasterly and rising temperature.

For Michigan and Wisconsin: Fair, except light snows at lake stations; easterly winds; warmer on Wednesday.

LORDS IN COURT.

Tutor Morland on Trial This Morning

For the Alleged Crime of Blackmail.

Earl Russell, Made Prominent by His Divorce,

Was the First Witness on the Stand.

Testimony Going to Show That the Accused Tutor Lived High on Money Obtained Through Other Than Legitimate Channels.

London, March 1.—In the extradition courts, at Bow street, this morning, before Sir John Bridge, the chief magistrate, Maitland Francis Morland, described as a tutor, aged 65, of No. 23 St. John street, Oxford, was charged with attempting to obtain from Henry James, Lord Hothfield, the sum of seventy pounds, and other moneys by false pretenses.

Mr. George Lewis appeared for the prosecution. The prisoner was defended by Mr. J. Crawshaw, solicitor, of Bow street.

As upon the occasion of the last examination of the prisoner, the court was crowded with lords and lordlings and other representatives of the world of aristocracy, intermingled here and there with flash sporting men and a few loud mouthed cockneys of the last water. Mr. Henry Labouchere, M. P., the editor of Truth, and the first to shed the electric light of the press upon this scandal, was prominent among the crowd. He chatted in his usual vivacious manner with Lord Hothfield, the prosecutor. Also conspicuous among those present in court was Earl Russell, a feature of the proceedings being the alleged suit brought against him by "Ruth Morland," supposed to be identical with the prisoner, who claimed to have loaned money to the earl and who threatened to send some letters, said to be compromising, to the earl's intended, and after his marriage, to his wife, unless this money was paid.

Earl Russell, who was one of the earliest arrivals in court, was pale and nervous and evidently very much ill at ease.

Earl Russell was the first witness called, the calm, jaunty, though nervous manner of this young nobleman, recalling his previous appearance in the witness box in the divorce suit brought against him by his wife, which attracted so much attention recently, on both sides of the Atlantic.

Earl Russell said that in 1888 he received a letter similar to the one addressed to Lord Hothfield. The letter purported to be from a very young widow, who informed his lordship that he could call as often as he liked. She asked for £50 as a loan.

Earl Russell said he foolishly replied to this letter, and that the next year, after his marriage engagement, he received an unsigned letter saying that some gentleman had called upon "Ruth Morland," and offered £50 for his lordship's letter.

The earl replied that he would be glad to receive the information that his letters had been destroyed as hers had been.

Earl Russell afterwards received a letter declaring that if his letter meant an offer of £50 for the return of his correspondence the matter could be easily arranged; if not, it was intimated that his indiscretion would be revealed and their secret would be disclosed to some one who would be only too glad to get possession of it.

The most simple way to solve the difficulty would be to send £50 to the writer.

Afterward he received another letter, saying that Miss Scott, the earl's intended bride (to whom he was afterwards married) should see the letters, but he persisted in his refusal to be blackmailed.

Finally "Ruth Morland" began writing anonymous letters to Miss Scott.

Finally Earl Russell received a letter from Ruth Morland, saying that unless £50 was sent her, the writer intended confessing to her husband that she had committed adultery with Earl Russell.

Mr. Lewis then asked: "Have you ever committed adultery with Mrs. Morland?"

Earl Russell—I have never even seen her.

Mr. Clement Cheese, a lawyer, testified that the prisoner consulted him upon a suit which he intended to bring against Earl Russel for alienating his (Morland's) wife's affections. Mr. Cheese communicated with Earl Russell on this subject and learned of Morland's blackmailing operations and dropped the case.

Morland interrupted indignantly denying this assertion. After further testimony Morland was committed for trial without bail.

CAN'T COME IN PERSON.

London, March 1.—A dispatch to the Daily News from Berlin says that the report that the kaiser will visit the world's fair is absolutely false. The kaiser would like to visit the fair, but he has already stated that he could not do so, and has expressed regret.

HE'S GOT IT.

City of Mexico, March 1.—Rumors are in circulation that Senor Licenciado Jose Ives Limantour has received the reappointment as secretary of the treasury in the cabinet instead of Senor Gomez Farcas, who resigned and will leave for the United States.

Danville, Va., March 1.—Information reached here yesterday of a fire at Hillsville, the county seat of Carroll county, which is said to have destroyed half the town.

TRIPOLI FOR THE SULTAN.

It is to be the Turkish Garrison in Africa.

The Secret of the Trouble is That Turkey Wants to Make Her Grip More Secure.

Constantinople, March 1.—The secret of the disturbances in Afro-Turkish province of Tripoli is that the sultan wishes to strengthen the Turkish rule in the province, and make it a base of operation in dealing with Egypt on the one hand or France and Tunis on the other.

Heretofore Turkish rule in Tripoli has been little more than nominal. The sultan's governor has ruled in a barbarous fashion, with a corps of native soldiers, who plunder and oppress the people, and especially the Jews.

The sultan has ordered the dissolution of this corps and the organization of a large disciplined army, to be recruited by conscription.

This has aroused the wrath of the native moors and Arabs, who would prefer to go on in the old way and have no desire to be pressed into the Turkish service.

There is no doubt, however, they will have to yield, as the Sultan has plenty of spare troops just now to use in bringing them to terms. Tripoli is, in short, to be the Turkish garrison in Africa.

DEFENDS MRS. BLAINE.

Dr. Scott, of Pittsburg, Speaks from Personal Knowledge.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 1.—The divorced wife of James G. Blaine, jr., is closely related to the wife of Dr. C. S. Scott, of Pittsburg, and the doctor is one of her staunch defenders.

He yesterday said, concerning the letter from Secretary Blaine: "I think the whole explanation is only a Blaine scheme sprung for the purpose of making a hero of young Jim, at the expense of his greatly wronged wife.

"I have knowledge of facts which, if made public, would successfully refute nearly every statement made by Blaine. I do not believe the charges he makes against his son's wife, because I know they are untrue."

OPIUM IN THE COFFIN.

A Smuggler's Game Discovered by a Californian.

San Diego, Cal., March 1.—A corpse was brought over the Mexican border one day last week to be shipped to San Francisco. Only a careless examination was made, as the Mexicans resent interference with their dead. When the procession was out of sight of the custom officers it struck for the foot hills, instead of going towards San Diego.

An American, who observed this, followed the mourners and traced them to a house where, through a window, he saw many small tins of opium taken from the coffin.

A USELESS DENIAL.

Washington, March 1.—Senator Sherman's comment on the published statement that he had made up his mind to resign from the senate was brief but comprehensive. He said: "There is not the slightest foundation for the story. I have never uttered to anyone my purpose to resign, for I have never even contemplated it."

Important Decision Rendered at Columbus.

The Supreme Court Decides the Charter Case.

The Trust Agreement Which Binds the Great Company Together is Declared to be Illegal.

Columbus, O., March 1.—In the quo warranto suit instituted by Attorney General Watson of this state nearly two years ago, to test the legality of the charter of the Standard Oil company, the Ohio supreme court rendered its decision to-day.

It is against the company.

The incorporation of the original company is not annulled, but the trust agreement between it and other oil concerns, forming the trust, is declared to be illegal. It is regarded as one of the most important decisions ever rendered by this court.

MILLER IN JAIL.

A Mob Thinking About Lynching Sprinkle's Murderer.

Dexter, Mo., March 1.—This town is greatly excited over the capture of Miller, the desperado who murdered Marshal Sprinkle last Saturday night.

Miller was arrested yesterday near the town of Campbell and was brought here and placed in a strongly guarded jail last night.

There are nearly 200 armed men in town and it is believed Miller will be summarily dealt with.

CHARGED WITH SMUGGLING.

Montreal, March 1.—Yesterday Judge Desnoyer rendered judgment in the case of United States custom inspectors Twohey and Smith, and Nicholas Sorrensky, a merchant tailor, charged with conspiracy against J. J. Milloy, a merchant tailor, who was said to be engaged in smuggling transactions. Twohey and Sorrensky was committed for trial. Smith was discharged.

SCORED A BIG POINT.

Indianapolis Strikers in the Lead.

A Receiver for the Car Companies Appointed,

And the Cars Again Running, Conducted by the Strikers and Decorated with Flags.

Indianapolis, March 1.—To-day is one of calm in the street car strike. The strikers and their sympathizers at an early hour this morning performed a great legal coup in filing a suit in which W. P. Fishback, master in chancery of the United States court, is plaintiff, and in which the appointment of a receiver is asked for.

At 1 o'clock this morning Judge Taylor appointed W. T. Steel receiver, who gave bond in the sum of $100,000.

The receiver was able to gain possession of only one barn, and from there he started 12 cars manned by strikers, which were received with wild cheers, and were decorated with flags.

Later a procession of 2,000 laborers paraded the streets headed by the street car brotherhood and were received with cheers en route.

The street car company tried to evade the receivership by taking an appeal to the general session this morning, which if granted would have vacated the receivership, but the plaintiff, Fishback, charged the company with contempt in refusing to surrender its barns and Judge Taylor ordered them to be purged of contempt at once.

The company is checkmated now, and all proceedings in court have been continued until 2 o'clock.

It appears that the company will have to surrender to the receiver or else President Frenzel will stand committed to jail.

FOSTER'S MARCH STORM.

It Put in an Appearance on Time.

The Ocean Coast Lashed Into a Fury and Damage to a Great Extent Caused.

Pleasantville, N. J., March 1.—A heavy northeast gale, the worst since 1890, prevailed here last night and much damage is reported. At Atlantic City, J. C. Whal's new shoe store on Atlantic avenue was blown down and totally demolished.

Reports from along the coast show that the storm was general and that much damage was done.

OPPOSED TO DEEP WATER

Lake Men Who Object to a 20-Feet Channel.

Whiting, of Michigan, Turns the Tide.

He Says That It Would Require Too Much Money to Make the Harbors Comparatively Deep.

Washington, March 1.—Several days ago Congressman Whiting, of St. Clair, Mich., went before the house committee on rivers and harbors to advocate an appropriation for a water improvement in his district.

While making his statement he was asked several questions which, on being answered, showed that he was opposed to the twenty-foot channel scheme, which has been the hope of so many vessel men and others for several years past.

He took occasion to say that the government should not undertake to dredge a twenty-feet channel through the lakes for if it did an enormous expense would be involved, inasmuch as every small harbor would then, in consequence, have to be deepened.

Twenty feet outside meant twenty feet inside, and people interested would insist that all the harbors, big and little, should be made navigable for all vessels, be they great or small.

The remarks of Mr. Whiting greatly surprised the members of the committee, all of whom were heartily in favor of giving the vessel men the channel they have so long wanted.

But if, as Mr. Whiting declared a 22-feet waterway through the lakes would necessitate the improvement of every insignificant harbor from Buffalo to Duluth, they frankly admitted they would entirely change their views on the entire subject of lake appropriations.

However, representatives of the vessel men are doing all they can to get the committee back into line again. Hon V. A. Taylor told the chairman to-day that he would like to appear before the committee to answer the objections which Whiting has raised.

He was informed that an opportunity would be given him to do so, and he is now preparing for the hearing which will be accorded him in a day or two.

Secretary Thompson, of the Duluth Board of Trade, has also come to the city, and will do what he can in the interest of the channel improvement. In relation to Whiting's speech, Mr. Thompson said:

"The entire northwest is against Whiting, and he has made the most serious mistake of his life. There is a little harbor in his district called Clinton Creek, and he says that a 20 feet channel would ruin this harbor and drive small vessels off the lakes. I also understand that Representative Weadock, of Bay City, Mich., agrees with Whiting. Mr. Haughen, of River Falls, Wis., too, is said to be opposed to the channel proposition, but I do not know myself whether he is or not."

The statement is made that McDougall, the inventor of the whaleback, is behind the fight against the 20-feet improvement, because, as he argues, his style of vessels can do very well in such water as there is at present, and if the lakes are to be deepened he will eventually be enabled to make the business of the large steel freighters unprofitable, and thus stop their building. Vessel men along the lakes have been informed by telegraph of the situation, and active work will be done to undo the damage wrought by Whiting and his sympathizers. It is believed it can be done.

HALF A MILLION MINERS

Will Quit Work in the English Pits.

They Will Make a Determined Stand Against a Reduction of Their Wages.

London, March 1.—It is now estimated that the immense number of 400,000 miners will cease work in a fortnight in their efforts to prevent the masters from putting into effect the scheme to reduce wages.

The mining industry throughout Great Britain will be greatly affected, the only miners who stand aloof from the movement being those employed in South Staffordshire and East Worcestershire.

Should the present intentions of the miners be carried out and the strike inaugurated the branch industries will also be adversely affected and it is estimated that close on to 1,000,000 men will feel the effects of the miners' struggle.

The agitation is due to the action of mine owners in Wales and Cumberland who gave an intimation of their intention to reduce wages on the sliding scale principle, owing to the decline that had occurred in the prices of coal.

The men refused to accept a reduction and declared that the mine owners must make the consumers pay. The men offered to make an alliance with the coal mine owners and form a ring of miners and mine owners to maintain rates.

The Coal Miners' association declared that this would be impossible as the mine owners outside of the association are cutting rates. The men then threatened if the present rate of wages was maintained to strike in all the collieries, where prices were reduced below the rates of the Mine Owners' association.

The Miners' Federation declare that since 1888 it has forced up wages 40 cents by hard fighting and it does not intend to have them drop a penny. The prices of coal are rapidly rising in London, the figures to-day showing an advance of 2 shillings a ton above Saturday's rates. The increase will fall heavily on the poorer classes. It is expected that at the end of the week coal will sell at 2 shillings per hundred weight, which will be almost double the usual price.

CANADA'S SCHOOL QUESTION

It is the Rock Upon Which Parties Will Split.

A Reported Deal with the Catholics By Which Thompson is to Succeed Premier Abbott.

Winnipeg, Man., March 1.—The organ of the Manitoba government here last night published a startling statement to the effect that a bargain had been made between the Roman Catholic church and the conservative government at Ottawa by which the church has pledged itself to give to the conservatives the entire Catholic vote.

One condition of the arrangement is that Abbott, the present dominion premier, is to retire in the near future and be succeeded by Sir John Thompson, who is a Roman Catholic.

Another condition is that, in the event of the privy council of England declaring the act recently passed by the Manitoba government abolishing Catholic schools to be valid and constitutional, the dominion government will promptly pass remedial legislation annulling the Manitoba act and giving Catholics the right to maintain their separate schools at the public expense.

WILL GO A BEGGING.

Nobody Wants the National Prohibition Convention.

St. Louis, March 1.—At a meeting of the local committee of the prohibition party last night, it was decided that this city would only contribute $1,000 for the national prohibition convention.

The national committee asks $3,000, but that sum is considered exorbitant and the local sentiment is that if the national committee is not satisfied with the offer of $1,000 they are at liberty to hold the convention where they please.

It is said that Cincinnati has guaranteed $5,000 and it is believed the convention will go to that city.

WILL BRING HIM BACK.

R. H. Chandler Arrested in Mexico Charged With Embezzlement.

El Paso, Tex., March 1.—Ralph H. Chandler, formerly cashier of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railway company at West Detroit, was arrested last night in Mexico on the charge of embezzlement in the sum of $8,000.

He was accompanied by a woman named Blanche Cicotte, who is believed to be from Detroit.

Extradition papers will be issued and Chandler turned over to the United States authorities at this point.

CANADIAN AFFAIRS.

Laurier Brings About Another Sensation

By Charging That the Government Has Been Misstating Facts to the Parliament.

Ottawa, Ont., March 1.—The address in reply to the speech from the throne was adopted in the house of commons yesterday after two hours' debate.

Hon. W. Laurier, leader of the opposition, charged the government with a misstatement of facts when they congratulated the house on the prosperity of the country.

The recent census had proved that Canada, in a decade, had grown only 500,000, while the United States had increased by 25 per cent. The ministerialists now spoke of reciprocity in natural products. If the government could offer this, the unanimous vote of the opposition would go with him.

Mr. Laurier desired the closest friendship with the United States founded on the broadest and firmest basis. The recent conference at Washington had been a failure because the Canadian government had no power to make a treaty.

Hon. Mr. Boulton, a strong conservative, hitherto an ardent supporter of the imperial faction, threw a bombshell into the conservative ranks by declaring that he could no longer support Premier Abbott, who had failed to reorganize the ministry in a manner consistent with the elevation of public life, after the scandals of last session.

He declared that his national policy had proved a failure, and declared for free trade.

PROGRESSIVE BUNCO.

Dana Has a Word to Say to Chicago.

The Sun Editor Does Not Like the Manner in Which the Windy City is Running the Fair.

New York, March 1.—The Sun has the following editorial headed: "More about progressive bunco."

First move: Give us a chance to hold this world's fair, and we will astonish the universe. It shall not cost the government one dollar beyond the government's own expenditures as exhibitor. Chicago stands ready to put $25,000,000 if necessary.

Second move: Can it be that this great nation of 65,000,000 souls having saddled upon Chicago a colossal national enterprise much against her will, intends to let her carry the burden alone? It will be made a very creditable show, providing the government will accommodate our self-sacrificing hustlers with a trifling loan of $5,000,000, or so.

Third move: D—n your eyes, do you take us for philanthropists? Put up your money for your show, or it shall go to thunder and you will be disgraced.

CRUSHED IN A WRECK.

Erie, Pa., March 1.—A Lake Shore freight train, while backing out of a switch at Harbor Creek to-day, collided with another freight. Mr. Charles Yeager, a live stock man, who was in the overturned caboose, was badly crushed in the wreck. His injuries are likely to prove fatal.

MARRIAGE STORY DENIED.

Albany, N. Y., March 1.—The story from Washington that Senator Hill is to marry Mrs. Daniel Manning is ridiculed by the friends of both Mrs. Manning and the senator.

SALAMON DISAPPOINTED

At the Decision of the Supreme Court.

He Cannot Figure Out How That Learned Body Failed to Agree with Him.

Chicago, March 1.—"I am very much disappointed at the finding of the supreme court," said Attorney Salamon in referring to the decision in the Fielden-Schwab appeal case. Gen. Benjamin Butler was associated with Mr. Salamon in his attempt to set the two men now serving life sentences at Joliet at liberty.

"Of course I have not been officially notified as to the ruling," he continued, "and what I say is based on the telegraphed report as it appears in the papers. By that I see that the main question was evaded entirely. We never contended that the defendants should be in the state supreme court when the sentence was confirmed. What we did claim was that the record was wrong when it said the prisoners were there.

"Our point was one of common law, which says that when a supreme court confirms the finding of a lower court, if the day of sentence has passed, the records must be transmitted to the lower court, the defendants again summoned before that lower court, which in this case was the Cook county criminal court, and again sentenced.

"This was not done, and it was mainly on this point that we made our arguments, but which has been overlooked or ignored by the United States supreme court, according to the report in the papers.

"The result would be appalling," said Mr. Salamon, in replying to the question as to what a favorable opinion would have led to.

"I am not prepared to answer that, for it would fasten a terrible crime upon the state, a crime as awful as the one the men who were executed were thought to have committed. It would give Fielden and Schwab their liberty, for a man cannot be put twice in jeopardy.

"I cannot tell now whether a re-hearing will be asked for or not until I have seen the rulings of the court."

"Had the decision been anything else I should have been disappointed," said Judge Grinnell, who was prosecuting attorney during the trial. "It is what I expected long ago, and how the attorneys thought they could carry the case before the United States supreme court is more than I can imagine."

POVERTY AND SUFFERING

Stalk About in the Streets of Vienna.

Thousands of People Are Out of Work.

The City Authorities Forced to Take Steps to Aid the Poor and Keep Them From Starving.

Vienna, March 1.—It is estimated that 5,000 shoemakers, 3,000 carpenters, 1,500 metal workers, 7,000 stone workers and 2,300 unskilled laborers are out of work. A reporter who accompanied the relief committee on their rounds to-day witnessed scenes of abject poverty and misery which it would be hard to match in the squalid courts of London. As an alleged result of the McKinley law 12,000 pearl workers were thrown out of employment and are now classed as unskilled workmen, the Austrian laws preventing their embracing a new trade without serving a new apprenticeship, which is impossible in the case of adults burdened with families. The chamber of commerce and the municipal authorities together voted 2,000 pounds to relieve the trade association formed to supply raw material at cheaper rates, but the benefits are conferred only upon those able to subscribe 25 florins. The result is that a majority of the button workers are left in a pitiable plight. Whole families are living and working in a single room, earning a few shillings weekly, and in daily fear of being evicted for arrears of rent.

In one instance the father of a family declared that he would commit suicide if his family would do the same. In a so-called model dwelling called the "Beehive," from its cellular structure, 700 souls were found occupying 215 rooms. Hungry, stunted children swarmed at the entrance. The air in the room was fetid and in many cases the rooms were bare, the furniture having been pawned to provide food. All the occupants appeared to be suffering from grinding poverty. Many shocking cases of "sweating" were brought to light.

A blacksmith who received 16 pence for making 1,000 screws or nuts earned 6s 8d weekly and paid out 3s 3d for rent and a yearly tax to the government of 16s 8d. Five years ago he earned three times as much for the same amount of work.

In another case a "sweater" paid 5d for the making of a dozen brushes. Many similar cases are told of parents and children engaged in ceaseless toil earning an aggregate wage of 5s to 7s weekly, and of widows with children in a worse plight, earning 6d daily. The fact that women work as laborers in the building and at other trades makes unskilled labor valueless. The poor seldom taste meat, even horse flesh, which is sold at 3d or 4d per pound and fuel is very dear. Their cellar dwellings are often loathsome dungeons, only separated from the sewers by a few bricks.

The authorities of this city have at last been compelled to recognize the urgency of the situation among the poor, and now permit the socialist relief committee to circulate appeals, hitherto prohibited, for donations. Contributions are, consequently, now flowing in more freely. At the last socialist doling of bread to the poor 6,000 persons assembled, and the distribution was attended with some turbulent scenes, which were repressed by the police.

Vienna, March 1.—As before stated in these dispatches there is much suffering in the city among the poor, and the charitably inclined have incessant demands made upon them to assist families who are on the verge of starvation. It has been announced that about 16,000 skilled mechanics and 2,300 unskilled laborers were out of employment. This is an erroneous statement arising from the misreading of figures. The number of unemployed is much greater than stated in yesterday's dispatches for the unskilled laborers who find it impossible to procure work is 23,000 instead of 2,300. This brings the number of men out of work up to about 40,000.

MADE NO PROGRESS.

The Seal Question Far From Settlement.

The Session to be Concluded This Week with the Prospect of a Complete Failure.

Washington, March 1.—The agents of the government of Great Britain and the United States in the matter of the fur seal industry will probably conclude their sessions this week.

It is intimated that their proceedings have not been productive of any tangible results and that they will separate as far apart as when they began upon the questions submitted to them for examination and report.

The case of the United States in the hands of Professors Merriam and Mendenhall will be prepared with the fullest possible knowledge on the subject.

BURK TO THE FRONT.

He Will Take Ryan's Place in the Ring.

The Exhibition Company Gets Out of a Bad Hole in a Very Graceful Manner.

New Orleans, March 1.—As a makeshift for the failure of Ryan to meet Needham last night, and owing to the fact that the officers of the Metropolitan club have found it impracticable to return the money to the bulk of the ticket holders, a finish fight for the original purse of $3,000 has been arranged for to-night between Needham and Jack Burk, champion lightweight of Texas, and who claims the title of champion lightweight of the south.

He will weigh in at 133, Needham at 138. Burk has fought 24 battles and has never been defeated. His most noted match was with Tommy Monoghan whom he defeated in 47 rounds.

Will the street commissioner take the hint?

DR. LUNGREN.

His Condition Not the Best—A Change Must Come Soon.

Mr. W. H. A. Read returned from Chicago yesterday, and in speaking of Dr. Lungren's condition said: "I left the patient very low, but his illness is of a peculiar nature. The changes in his condition are very sudden and radical. One minute he is bright and apparently greatly improved, and the next his sufferings are as great as ever. Changes for the better are just as sudden. This state of affairs cannot continue much longer. The physicians are certain that this week will determine the case definitely one way or the other.

THE HALCYON LADIES

Entertain at Dancing in the Highest Style of the Art.

For several years past the dancing parties of the Halcyon club have been events in the social season, and the young men of this organization have provided many enjoyable evenings for their lady friends and other guests. Last evening the young ladies took the matter in hand and entertained the young gentlemen with a delightful party at G. A. R. hall. About 35 couples participated and the ladies proved themselves to be excellent entertainers. The customs of leap year were observed in all the details of the affair, the ladies going after the gentlemen and doing all the inviting for the dances, thus creating much merriment with their shy efforts to play man. The hall was beautifully decorated with flowers. Tony Leon's orchestra furnished the music, and excellent refreshments were served.

HAS TAKEN A WIFE

Unto Himself—The Incoming Grand Chancellor of the K. P.'s.

Last evening's Cleveland World has the following mention of Mr. Phil. H. Dorn, who is well and favorably known in Toledo, and who is the grand chancellor-elect of the Knights of Pythias of Ohio:

"Phil H. Dorn, the genial president of the Cleveland Commercial Travelers' association, absented himself from the city for a few days last week and his friends did not know where he had gone to. Phil has been playing a joke on his many acquaintances. He arrived at the Hotel Pence early Monday morning, accompanied by a young and handsome bride. In answer to the queries of his friend, Landlord Pence, concerning the wedding Mr. Dorn only smiled, but would not say a word. He asked Mr. Pence to say nothing, as he knew the association boys would be after him red-hot for his slyness if the matter got out. Mr. and Mrs. Dorn will be at the Pence for a few days."

This project has been introduced that people who have a desire for good literature may have the benefit of a desirable and convenient place for study and reference.

TAXATION A QUESTION

Bothering the Law-Makers at Columbus.

Scheming to Get More Money in the Treasury.

Interesting Batch of Legislative Proceedings Wired From the Capital of the Great State of Ohio.

Columbus, O., March 1.—(Special)—Dr. Eakins, of Gallia, who was the head and front of the scheme to secure the location of the epileptic asylum at Gallipolis, has now undertaken the task of engineering the double taxation problem to a satisfactory conclusion, although it has puzzled legislators for many years.

In order to accomplish this object he introduced in the house yesterday afternoon a bill "to provide for the relief of mortgaged real estate from double taxation by amending and supplementing section 3179 of the revised statutes." The section referred to is amended to read as follows:

"The parties to a bond, bill, promissory note or other instrument of writing for the payment of money at any future time, may stipulate therein for the payment of interest upon the amount thereof at any rate not exceeding 8 per centum, payable annually. Provided, that on all notes or other instruments of writing bearing interest and secured by mortgages on real estate shall in no case exceed five per centum, payable annually."

This section is supplemented with the following, and is designated as section 3179 a.

"All notes or other instruments of writing bearing interest at a rate not exceeding 5 percentum, as specified in section 3179, shall be exempt from taxation and the term real estate as used in this act, shall be held to mean improved farm lands and improved and unimproved city and village lots."

How to Raise Funds.

Representative Strock yesterday afternoon introduced a bill that will place on the tax duplicate of the state considerable property from which a large sum of money can be obtained to assist in running the various departments and state institutions.

It provides that any telegraph, telephone, sleeping car or express company doing business in this state, shall, when called upon, appear before a board composed of the governor, secretary of state and auditor of state, to be known as a board of appraisers and assessors.

The governor is to be president and he shall approve the time and place of meeting, to which officials of the above mentioned companies shall be invited; in fact, the meeting must be held in May of each year.

This board is to have power to compil under oath a detailed statement of the personal and real property of all companies mentioned above from the president, secretary, treasurer, receiver or principal accounting officer.

After this work has been performed the board shall annually report before the first Mondoy in June to the auditor of state the total value of the property of said companies and the value assessed against the same in the state of Ohio and the distribution thereof, all of which shall be by the auditor of state communicated to the general assembly with his annual report.

The board is given all the powers possessed by county auditors.

One provision of the bill compels all such companies, whether chartered by laws of this or any other state or country, that the treasurer shall, under oath, state the amount of the capital stock, its place of business, the par value and market value of its shares at the time of said return.

This return shall also contain a statement in detail of the entire real and personal property of said companies and where located and the value as assessed for taxation and in addition thereto telephone and telegraph companies are required to return their whole length of lines within and without the state, and the board, in determining the value of the property of all companies, must be guided by the value of the entire capital stock of such corporations, so that the true value in money can be obtained for taxation.

Express and sleeping car companies are required to return a statement of their entire gross receipts for the year ending the first day of May of the business done in this state, giving the receipts in this state and the location of each office.

If any of the officials of said company mentioned heretofore should refuse to attend a meeting of this board of appraisers and refuse to submit any book or paper, or refuse to answer any questions, such official shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, on conviction, be confined in the jail of the county not exceeding 30 days and be fined in any sum not to exceed $500 and costs.

The same officials can be punished for contempt in refusing to answer any questions asked by any member of the board.

After this board has determined upon the valuation of the property, it shall be apportioned to each county through which any of the above corporations may do business and the county auditor shall, when notified, apportion the same among the cities, villages, townships and districts and collect taxes on the same as on other personal property.

Their real property is disposed of in the same way and no reduction of capital stock will effect the valuation made by the state board at its first meeting, unless it can be shown that there is good cause for the same.

Natural Gas Must be Furnished.

Senator Marshall yesterday afternoon introduced a bill of considerable interest to the people and cities that may use natural gas. It supplements section 2482 of the revised statutes and the following is a full text of the same:

Section 2482 (b). Wherever any company, authorized by its charter to supply natural gas, or both natural and produced gas, to the corporation and its inhabitants, has by ordinance or agreement entered into any such contract or assumed any obligation with any city, in consideration of franchises or other rights or privileges granted it, or to be granted it, such natural gas company may be compelled by mandamus to perform its contract or comply with its obligations, at the suit of the city solicitor on behalf of said city, or of any citizen interested in the performance of such contract or obligation.

This act is to take effect and be in force after its passage and is to cover the trouble in Dayton.

OVERWHELMING EVIDENCE!

Of the Success of Dr. Copeland and Associates at 706 Madison Street.

Statements that are Candid, Straightforward and Convincing, and From Persons Whose Evidence Is Beyond Dispute.

It is rarely that the specialist, whose observation covers a wide range of throat and lung troubles and whose experience brings him in contact with many of the serious and desperate cases resulting from neglected catarrh, sees a more pronounced case and one more typical of what head and throat trouble, if neglected or not properly treated, may develop into, than the case of Mr. Ancil G. Rice, of 219 Dix street. As near as possible we give his own words:

"My trouble has all been due to chronic catarrh," says Mr. Rice, "and it was not neglected, either, for I

Have Doctored for Years,

but been improperly treated. I had occasional violent headaches. My eyes were weak and watery and my nose was continually stopped up. I was forced to breathe through my mouth.

Ancil G. Rice, 219 Dix Street.

"My throat was always filling up with the dropping of the mucus from the head. I was hawking and spitting all the time. My throat was at times very sore and raw. My rest was poor at night and I was really unfit for business in the morning.

"As I said, I tried many prominent physicians, but experienced very little relief. I had heard and read of the success of Dr. Copeland and associates, and concluded to give them a trial. I did so with the result that my pains, aches and other troubles are all gone. The change in my condition is such that I unhesitatingly recommend Dr. Copeland and associates to all who suffer as I did."

NASAL POLYPI.

This Annoying and Painful Disease Described by a Victim.

(Nasal polypi are tumors that grow in the nasal cavities. They obstruct the passage of air through the nose, swell up in damp weather, or decrease somewhat in fair weather. They give rise to frontal headaches, fits of sneezing, coughing, asthma, facial neuralgia, pains in the neck and chest, and impair or destroy the senses of smell, taste or hearing. The breath often has a peculiar "mousy" odor, the margins of the nostrils become raw and excoriated, the eyes are watery and the voice has a nasal twang.)

"I had been troubled for a number of years," said Mr. George Hoffman, of 107 Empire street. "My head and nose was completely stopped up and I had to breathe through my mouth. This was due, in a measure, to the accumulation of mucus, but more especially to a number of polypi tumors which filled both nostrils. I had treated with a number of physicians but none of them discovered the tumors. Some time ago I called on Dr. Copeland and associates, and placed myself under their treatment. They immediately removed seven polypi tumors and I was able to breathe through my nostrils, something I had not done in years. They then treated my catarrh, and I am happy to say I am feeling better to-day than I have for years. The removal of the tumors was without the slightest pain or loss of blood. I cannot recommend Dr. Copeland and associates too highly."

FROM OUT OF TOWN.

Results in a Case Treated by Mail.

Portage, O., Feb. 9, 1892.

Copeland Medical Institute, Toledo, O.:

Gentlemen:—Since taking your treatment for catarrh, I am very much better. My general health is much improved, my sense of smell has returned. My case was a chronic one and will require time. I am greatly encouraged and anticipate a complete cure. Refer anyone to me.

N. C. BESANSON.

ANOTHER INSTANCE.

A Prominent Real Estate Agent Tells of the Removal of Twenty Polypi Tumors.

Among the many prominent real estate agents in Toledo, none are more popular or more favorably known than Mr. J. J. Sumner, whose offices are at the corner of Superior and Madison streets, and who lives at 721 Prouty avenue. Mr. Sumner tells of his experience with Dr. Copeland and associates as follows:

"I had catarrh for a long time. My nose stopped up so that I could breathe only with great difficulty. In damp weather I could not breathe at all. I suffered from terrible, racking headaches. I often thought my head would burst with the throbbing and the pain. There was the constant flow of mucus from my nose, and my eyes became sore and watery. I did not sleep well, and I found that I was losing my sense of smell. I was most distressed, however, about my voice, which changed in tone until it sounded as if I pinched my nose with my fingers while talking.

"I was quite in despair, when after reading the testimonials of the patients of Dr. Copeland and associates I determined to make a trial of their treatment. I accordingly went to the Copeland Medical Institute, and it was only a short time until I began to breathe through my nose, until the headaches disappeared and until the polypus growths were removed. I can now hear the natural voice that has returned to me, much to my comfort and delight. I sleep well and I feel well. I have only one fear, and that is that the polypi may return, so I have concluded to continue the treatment for another month, at the end of which time I shall be forever rid, I hope, of the complaint that for four years made life a burden to me. I am glad to add my small tribute of praise to the splendid work of those physicians."

CURRENT TOPICS.

The requests made for autographs of public men in Washington are so numerous that at times the desk of the president's doorkeeper, Charles Loeffler, is piled high with albums left there to receive the presidential signature. Loeffler acts as a sort of middle-man in this sentimental trade, and when the president has a few minutes of leisure the stock of albums is deftly and decorously placed before him for his attention. In the senate and house the pursuit of autograph getting is conducted through the medium of pages, who sometimes, it is averred, receive $10 for an album bearing the signatures of senators, or $25 for one filled with the autographs of the leading members of the house. One of the specimens of chirography most in demand is that of Senator Stanford, who signs his name simply "L. Stanford," in a plain and old-fashioned way.

There is one curious thing about a Russian winter. In the latter part of October or the first of November the weather will be as mild as it is here in September. Not a sign can be seen of an approaching change, when suddenly, without any apparent warning, a light haze will be seen in the northern sky, and in 24 hours the thermometer will fall 50 degrees. The change is so sudden and violent that travelers are frequently frozen to death before they can gain shelter. It has occurred that farmers out looking after their flocks have been caught in one of these blizzards, and, missing their way home, have lost their lives, their bodies remaining under the snow until the following spring. The suddenness of a Dakota blizzard is well known in the northwestern part of our country, but it is tardiness personified when compared with the rapidity with which a Russian winter storm comes up.

There must be a particularly hot spot in the earth under Wheeling, W. Va., says the New York Sun. It is hoped to sink the well now being driven there at least a mile. The well is a little less than five inches in diameter. Its peculiarity is that no vein of water has been tapped, and being perfectly dry, scientific men have an unexampled opportunity to conduct their investigations. The temperature is being taken at various depths. At a depth of 1,350 feet the temperature is 68 degrees; at 2,275 feet, 79 degrees; at 3,375 feet, 92 degrees; at 4,375 feet, 108 degrees, and at 4,462 feet it is 111 degrees Thus the temperature is increasing faster and faster the deeper the boring. For instance, the increase in the 1,000 feet from 2,375 feet to 3,375 feet is about 13 degrees, while the increase in the next 1,000 feet is more than 16 degrees. If the heat goes on increasing in similar progression, a depth will be reached before long where every solid substance will be melted. That, however, will be no indication that the same state of things exists everywhere under the earth's crust, for wells driven in other parts of the world have shown very different rates in the increase of heat.

There have been four business managers of the World in a year, says the Philadelphia Press. Thereby hangs a tale of the experiences of a leading manufacturer of printing ink in this city. He made overtures to George Turner, when that gentleman occupied this position, to introduce his ink on trial. Mr. Turner promised to test it in a couple of weeks. In a week he was out of the World office. His successor was John A. Dillon, of the St. Louis Dispatch. The manufacturer set about securing Mr. Dillon's good will, and had secured from him a pledge to try the ink when he made his next large order, when the business manager was transferred up stairs and Frederick Driscoll, jr., son of the owner of the St. Paul Pioneer Press, took the place. The ink manufacturer was not discouraged, and two weeks ago to-day obtained a promise from Driscoll similar to those given him by Messrs. Turner and Dillon. One week ago to-day Mr. Driscoll was succeeded by John Morris, formerly of the Philadelphia Record, and the third promise was thus made impossible of fulfillment. An acquaintance of mine in the World business office related the sequel to me yesterday as follows: "The ink manufacturer came to me on Saturday and told me this story. I thought he was going to ask me for an introduction to Mr. Morris. Instead of that he said that he was willing to give me $100 or more if I would find out and tell him who is going to succeed Mr. Morris, so he can begin his work on the fifth man now."

An attempt has been made to introduce the oyster cocktail to the attention of London clubmen, but they seemed staggered by its chief ingredient, which somebody has been giving them as "tobacco sauce." It is hard to believe that any citizen of the world has never heard of tabasco, the marvellously piquant product of one or two Louisiana plantations famous for their small peppers and tomatoes. Even a teetotaler like Senator Hill, who has no use for cocktails, has been persuaded, at a Manhattan club reception, to indulge in an oyster cocktail, which has nothing vinous or spirituous in it. Nobody, however, is known ever to have taken more than one, for by the aid of tabasco, chilli, lemon-juice and horseradish, the apparently innocent "oyster cocktail" is generally heated to a fiery temperature of which "the hinges of Hades" are supposed to reflect a faint glow.

People who think that the free-pass business is carried to extremes in the United States should note how they do it in Russia. The Railroad Gazette says that the Russian railroads have been accustomed to give free passes not only to their employes, but to relatives of their employes, a practice which may have been heard of on this side of the Atlantic. The term "relatives," however, has been found to be extremely elastic, and recently the Great Russian company put its foot down and issued positive orders that passes will be granted to no other relatives of employes than their wives, though a trifling reduction of 70 per cent. on the prices of tickets will be made to the parents, brothers and sisters of employes and of their wives, but all aunts, cousins, and step-mothers must pay full fares. If your brother receives a salary of as much as 1,500 rubles ($750) from the company you can get your discount only on first-class tickets; if he has from 360 to 1,500 you have second-class tickets; if less than 360 rubles, third-class tickets.

Of all the devices of which we can think of prostituting the influence of the pulpit, says the Spectator, the device of making the preacher look habitually for the stimulus of popular applause seems to us about the most effective. It is no easy task for the preacher so to interpret Divine teaching as to keep it as free as possible of the refraction of human passion and prejudice. It is said of some of those who heard the only perfectly divine speech to which human lips have ever given utterance, "They loved the praise of men more than the praise of God" and what was said of the Pharisees in the time of our Lord may certainly be said of human teachers in our own time, though many of them struggle, and struggle very successfully against the temptation. The true object of preaching is to make God's will more effective than it is in its control over the hearts of the people; in a word, to reveal a theocracy above the democracy.—The Spectator.

TURN ABOUT FAIR PLAY.

Society Ladies Gave the Gentlemen a Twirl

Last Evening in the Shape of a Leap Year Party, with Which the Sterner Sex Had Nothing to Do but to Keep Still.

The thing was all turned around. Ladies acted the gallant, while poor, innocent, bashful, retiring men simpered as wall flowers. It was a grand opportunity for both sides to feel all those little sensations that in the aggregate go to make up their respective beings—sensations that before the turnabout effected last evening were meaningless nothings; sensations that never could have been conveyed to them by descriptions however vivid, no more than you could describe the taste of an oyster to a person who had never indulged in the bivalve.

The ladies now know what it is to ask a person to dance and find that he is engaged, or rather says he is engaged; they know what it is to have to get out on the floor and hustle for a partner, only to find all the best looking ones taken, and no prospects of their being dropped during the evening. Gentlemen now know what it is to wait until some one asks them to dance; they know how they feel when that someone is the homeliest someone in the room; they know now how to sit against the wall for four of five dances while the ladies go dancing about with handsome men; they know all these things and more too.

All this happened at the leap year party given by the ladies at Pythian castle last evening, the 29th day of February, the time of all times for a leap year party. The ladies who conceived the idea and so successfully carried it out were Mrs. Chas. Russell, Miss Ada Ritchie and Mrs. Ed. Baumgardner. The affair was carried out to the letter. The ladies paid all the expenses, ordered the carriages, helped the gentlemen in and out of them, carried the bundles, and in fact did the whole thing.

The grand march was led by Miss Ritchie and Mr. Henry E. Marvin. Mr. Marvin carried a handsome boquet of lettuce, sprinkled with ferns and tied with a mammoth pea soup green ribbon. Other ladies and their partners were as follows: Mrs. and Mr. L. S. Baumgardner, Mrs. and Mr. G. G. Hadley, Mrs. and Mr. Chas. Russell, Mrs. and Mr. Ed Baumgardner, Mrs. and Mr. Robert Dakin, Mrs. and Mr. C. Z. Kroh, the latter carrying a handsome paper boquet; Mrs. and Mr. Thos. Campbell, Mrs. and Mr. Edson, Mrs. Dyer and Clifford Buxton, Mrs. and Mr. Clarence Brown, Mrs. and Mr. J. G. Gould, Mrs. and Mr. W. H. Harrison, Mrs. and Mr. W. W. Ainsworth, Mrs. and Mr. A. L. Mills, Mrs. and Mr. A. R. Sisson, Mrs. and Mr. Harvey Haynes, Mrs. and Mr. Geo. W. Lang, Mrs. and Mr. Wm. L. Stow, Mrs. and Mr. Geo. W. Boos, Mrs. and Mr. W. H. Boos, Mrs. and Mr. T. C. Stevens, Mrs. and Mr. Leander Burdick, Mrs. and Dr. C. L. Van Pelt, Mrs. and Mr. Dr. Tipple, Mrs. and Mr. Cornelius Kendall, Mrs. and Mr. Arthur Luce, Mrs. J. N. Mockett and Samuel Watt, Mrs. and Mr. G. W. C. Hadley, Mrs. and Mr. James Hodge, Mrs. and Mr. J. T. Dempsey, Mrs. and Mr. C. A. Wilson, Mrs. J. T. Sparling and Geo. W. Stevens, Mrs. B. A. Stevens, Mrs. and Mr. A. E. Wilson, Mrs. and Mr. R. R. Kinkade, Mrs. and Mr. Downer Adams, Mrs. and Mr. Carew and Mrs. and Mr. Weeks, of Cincinnati; Mrs. and Mr. Hudson Fitch, Mrs. and Mr. J. B. Friend, and others.

All the guests sat down to a splendid supper at 11 o'clock. The tables were handsomely decorated with natural and cut flowers, ferns, etc. It was a most novel and enjoyable affair throughout and all the gentlemen are sorry that it can't happen more often than every four years.

Last evening there was inaugurated in this city an important move looking towards the organization of the veterans who smelled powder. Alleged soldiers who never were at the front and who now pose as the saviors of their country will not be in it, so to speak.

The Union Veteran's Union was instituted at Washington in 1886, and is spreading with wonderful rapidity all over the country.

Like the G. A. R., to which it is not antagonistic, it was organized in the interest of the veteran soldier.

Among its objects are "To recognize the rights of Union soldiers to positions of trust;" "to support and assist in the election to positions of trust none but those friendly to the Union soldier.

PETROLEUM FUEL AT PITTSBURG.

A number of the industrial establishments in Pittsburg and vicinity have become extensive consumers of petroleum for fuel, since the failure of the supply of natural gas. It is stated that 35,000 barrels a day are usedfor fuel purposes in this district alone, principally byiron and steel manufacturers and by the glass works. The price of the oil is 62 cents a barrel. It is pumped directly from the Lima fields to Pittsburg. And at the terminus of the line it is run into tank cars and sent to the thirty-nine establishments that are employing it. The cost is considered no greater than coal.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Birmingham, Ala., March 1.—J. F. Kirk, general agent for the Southern Directory company, was found dead in bed yesterday. The immediate cause of his death was a hemorrnage.

Kirk came here from Chicago and was in charge of the city directories for 13 southern states.

FREIGHT WRECK.

Fort Wayne, Ind., March 1.—Last night an axle under a freight car in eastbound Pittsburg fast freight No. 77 gave way at Auglaize, Ohio, derailing three cars and tearing up the track.

Numbers 8 and 2, limited, eastbound, were delayed nine hours and Nos. 3 and 5, westbound, two hours.

First Vice President McCrea and General Manager Joseph Woods of the Pennsylvania lines, were passengers on No. 3, bound for Chicago. No one hurt.

ILLUMINATING BURNERS.

It is Largely a Matter of Pressure,

And Then There Is Not so Much Difference in the Figures Discussed at the Gas Board.

At the meeting of the gas trustees a week ago, Mr. Buckus submitted a statement showing the number of feet of gas consumed by illuminating burners. At the meeting last evening Mr. Parsons submitted a similar statement, which appears elsewhere, to another effect. There is a big difference between the two reports. Superintendent Daly, of the Northwestern Gas company, has made extensive investigation in this matter and is authority on the subject. In conversation with a Bee, he said:

"Both reports may be accurate, but the gentlemen have both omitted a very important feature in their report, and that is pressure. It is very plain that more gas will be forced through a certain sized orifice at a high pressure than at a lower rate. I have here a table adopted by all gas companies as correct, as a result of experiments made by experts. The table shows the capacity of mixers under different pressure. For instance, at a pressure of 78-100 of an ounce, or 1-10 mercury, a No. 3 mixer will pass 12-01 cubic feet of gas per hour. At a pressure of 4 ounces, a No. 3 mixer will pass 29 cubic feet an hour, while at a pressure of 5 1-2 ounces, a No. 3 mixer will consume 34 feet per hour. Now at the same ratio, there is not so much difference between the two reports. The one bears out very well with the 3 1-2 ounce pressure, while the other compares with the lower pressure. The Niagara burner can be made to consume 55 feet per hour by simply removing the chimney, and using it for heating purposes.

"The large sized Jumbo tip if turned on full with a pressure of 3 1-2 ounces will consume 75 to 90 feet of gas per hour. I speak of mixer consumers, for in that case the supply of gas is regulated by the little valve at the burner.

"This table refers to mixers, but the principle is the same with regard to illuminating burners. The pressure regulates the amount of gas that passes through the out-let, be it a mixer or illuminating burner."

WELL, HERE!

Suit to Enjoin Payment of Mayor Emmick's Salary,

Because of an Old Business Disagreement—The City Now is Wanted to Settle Up the Bill.

In common pleas court to-day a suit was filed by Sylvania L. Rice to enjoin the city from paying Mayor Emmick what it owes him, and also to recover $527.87.

The suit is against Herbert C. Haskins and Vincent J. Emmick, and the city of Toledo.

It alleges that on June 29, 1891, the plaintiff recovered judgment against the defendants in the sum of $527.87, and $26.24 costs.

That on January 26, 1892, an execution was issued against property of the defendants which was returned wholly unsatisfied by the sheriff.

The plaintiff states in his petition that he is informed that the city is indebted to Vincent J. Emmick in a large sum, and he prays that the city of Toledo may be requested to answer and set forth the amount due Vincent J. Emmick. He further prays that both defendants may be required to appear before the court and answer concerning their property and that each may be enjoined from transferring on in any manner disposing of their property.

President Faurot says his financial embarrassment is due to unfortunate railway investment.

Faurot was president of the Columbus, Lima & Milwaukee Railroad company.

IN TRADING CIRCLES

Both at Our Home and Abroad.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles

London wheat and corn markets open quiet and weaker. Liverpool wheat dull and 1-2d lower; corn steady.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 577,829 bu, compared with 224,818 bu on the same day last year.

The imports into the United Kingdom for the week were 1,560,000 bu of wheat and 208,000 bbls of flour, equal to 2,495,000 bu of wheat, and 739,000 bu of corn.

The quantity of flour and wheat on ocean passage increased last week 680,000 bu, being an increase to the United Kingdom of 568,000 bu and an increase to the continent of 112,000 bu. Corn decreased 200,000 bu. The decrease in importation into the United Kingdom more than accounts for the increase.

Our table herein of available wheat and corn shows an increase of 316,497 bu. wheat, and an increase of 153,339 bu. corn.

Liverpool Stocks.—The following table gives the stocks of grain at Liverpool on the dates named:

March 1, 1892.
Wheat, qrs.	300 to 320,000
Corn, qrs.	50 to 60,000
Flour, bbls.	210 to 220,000
February 1, 1892.
Wheat, qrs.	320 to 340,000
Corn, qrs.	70 to 80,000
Flour, bbls.	150 to 160,000
March 1, 1891.
Wheat, qrs.	190 to 200,000
Corn, qrs.	100 to 110,000
Flour, bbls.	170 to 180,000

The receipts of wheat to-day show some decrease. In the northwest the receipts are 310,842 bu and at five other points 256,987 bu. The latter show an increase over yesterday.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were wheat 191,576 and flour to an aggregate of 390,000 bu. The export of corn was 313,715 bu and of oats 13,800 bu.

English markets as reported herein are dull, slow and lower for wheat and corn, but later were firmer.

It is hard work to be interesting about nothing. It is hard work to galvanize interest into markets that are from natural and inherent causes dead dull. The operations on the exchanges seem to be simply the inspiration of room traders. Western prices do not invite foreign orders, but the market seems to be doing its level best to maintain a firm condition. It is the time of year for hesitation and general apathy in wheat. It is telegraphed every day or two that Minneapolis has sold a quantity of wheat for export, all which may be true, but it is wheat that is to be shipped in May most likely. Away up in that northwest, railway rates are like "white man, very uncertain." They claim about the same rate to the seaboard as from Toledo, which is in the United States, and if they can rebate the rate sufficiently perhaps wheat can be moved east. At this kind of business Minneapolis has always been very handy. When navigation opens we expect a free movement of wheat all around.

Our table of Liverpool stocks shows 160,000 bu less wheat and 60,000 bu more flour than on February 1. In wheat and flour expressed in wheat the increase in stock is equal to 100,000 bu.

Markets To-day.

For weeks the western wheat markets in this country have hovered around 90 for May, and to-day presents no exception The fluctuations have been close to that figure all day, and close very near it. New York has been about as steady around 1 01 for May, closing firmer.

Corn has been quite firm and closed a shade higher.

Foreign markets close firm except Liverpool, which is quoted as cheaper.

In New York May wheat closed 1-8c, May corn 1-4c, and May oats 1-8c up.

In Chicago March and May wheat closed 1-4c. March corn 1-4c, May corn 1-2c, May oats 18c, all higher.

In Toledo business has been dull. The trading in wheat was light and without interest. Neither side of the deal manifested any disposition for trading. Opening prices were a shade lower, but the market gathered a little strength and advanced 1-2c, but closed 1-4c better. On the call May sold at 95 1-2c. After the call May sold at 95 3-8c, to 96c, and to 95 3-4c, closing at 96 7-8c. July sold at 90@90 3-8c, and at close 90 1-2c was bid. August sold at 88c. Cash wheat was as quiet as usual, with only small lots selling. No. 2 soft sold at 95c, a gain of 1-2c. No. 3 soft at 92 1-2@93 1-2c.

Corn—No. 2 at 41 1-2c. No. 3 at 41c. No. 4 at 39c.

Rye—No. 2 at 85 1-2c.

Clover seed was active, strong and higher. On the call March sold at $6.00. After the call the market was much firmer. Some short interest was developed, and as stock has been decreasing rapidly there was some anxiety to buy, besides the natural daily shipping decreased which has been active. Prime for cash sold at $6.25@6.30; March at $6.05@6.25; No. 2 at $5.90@6.15. After change March was offered at $6.25.

The coal strike after their share of the advance of yesterday showed a somewhat reactionary tendency this morning. The first prices were only slightly changed although Chicago Gas was down 1 per cent. W. & L. E. pfd and Del. & Hud. were strong spots and each recorded 1 1-8 per cent. advances. Delaware, however, soon lost 1 per cent. Whisky trust declined 1 1-4 per cent. and Chicago Gas 3-4 in the early trading. New England was the feature of the dealings. It advanced to 54 from 51 3-4. The rest of the market sympathized fractionally, but did not retain the advance. At 11 o'clock except in a few cases the change in prices were slight. The market was decidedly weak in the second hour and on a limited selling Lackawanna fell 1 3-4, New Jersey 1 1-4, D. & H. 1 1-8 and New England 1 1-4. At noon the general list was down to the lowest figures. At this writing the market is dull. Sales to noon 174,000 shares.

TOLEDO, OHIO, MARCH 1, 1892.

You can depend upon it that John Sherman will not resign. He does not belong to the party of resigners.

The gayest city in all the world today is New Orleans. In no other place is Mardi Gras so attractively celebrated and so thoroughly enjoyed.

An early city convention this year will please democrats and is good for the city. The people ought to have time to discuss the situation and select the best men for office.

Letters from the Tolstoi family are very despairing as to the fate of the Russian peasantry. The famine is the legitimate outcome of injustice and oppression and there are no prospects of changed conditions.

Our special correspondent who was in the St. Louis convention predicts the nomination of Gresham for president by the people's party. They might go much farther and fare much worse. The mugwumps would support Gresham, if they could ignore the platform.

"The tin plate liar exposed," shouts an organ and then relates how "the first coke tin ever made in the United States" was coated at Mingo Junction O., yesterday, in the presence of 1,500 people. The liar is exposed sure enough. According to him the country was booming with this product six months ago.

The organs make hilarious headlines of the fact that the semi-colored member from Cuyahoga presided over the Ohio senate yesterday for the space of a half hour. The colored voter is expected to make much of very little. It is only in the Southern states where he is least fitted, that the republican party is willing he should be granted ruling place.

The board of education of Toledo declined to indorse the Doty school suffrage bill last night. The board acted unnecessarily timid and somewhat cowardly, in that no good reason was given for its refusal to indorse the measure. The members might have declined on the ground of unconstitutionality of the proposed law, and their objection would then have been good. No other reason is good. In the majority of states woman school suffrage is fundamental law. The plan works well wherever tried. There is every reason to believe it would be good for Ohio. Certainly it would not lower the standard of our schools. It is also very certain that the wheels within the wheels and the rings of the school book makers that have encircled two-thirds of the teachers and boards of education of Ohio would be broken and smashed. That is one good reform woman school suffrage would effect. But the Doty bill is unconstitutional and the good women ought to commence over and begin right. The constitution must be amended before woman school suffrage will come to stay.

The supreme court in its decision on the constitutionality of the reciprocity clause says, "the president is not vested with any real legislative power; congress prescribed the conditions under which the president should act." The reciprocity clause itself reads: "So often as the president shall be satisfied * * * he shall have the power and it shall be his duty to suspend," etc. If words mean what they say, the president is to be the sole judge as to whether foreign nations "impose duties which are reciprocally unequal and unreasonable" and shall jerk the pull back string at his own pleasure, the begowned bench to the contrary, notwithstanding. The reciprocity clause grants him powers not guaranteed the executive by the constitution, the power to levy or to remove taxes (according to the wording of the law) "when he shall be satisfied," etc. It is not provided that the matter shall be referred to any legislative body for sanction or disapproval. The supreme court by its decision does not change the fact in the case any more than it did when it decided that one set of votes could elect a democrat governor of Louisiana and republican presidential electors.

The formidable army of revolutionists who are battering away at the gates of Brandenburg, metaphorically and literally, demand:

Universal suffrage without distinction of sex, elections by secret ballot, the election of all public officials by the people, with responsibility to the people; a national militia in place of a standing army, the decision of peace or war to rest with the representatives if the people. The repeal of all laws prohibiting free expression of opinion or the right of association or public meeting; that religon shall be "a matter of private opinion," that the church shall be independent of the state; free administration of justice and free legal advice, judges to be elected by the people; abolition of capital punishment, establishment of criminal courts of appeal and payment of compensation to persons unjustly accused, arrested or condemned; legislation for the protection of the working classes, and an unbroken period of rest of thirty-six hours in each week for every workingman; secularization of the public schools, compulsory attendance, free education, free books and free dinners for pupils.

What's wrong with these German socialists anyhow? They are ready for graduation into good citizens of a free republic like our own. Their demands are the most healthful sign of the progress of humanity, from the ground up. Every measure they ask is already our own, except the abolishment of the death penalty for crime, universal suffrage and free school dinners. When the people have the rights for which they contend, the "dinner question" will take care of itself. The other two are likely to be under debate for some time in all enlightened countries.

GOOD LOCAL POLITICS.

The democratic city convention will be held under the so-called Baber law, which is the primary system. The caucuses for the selection of delegates will be held on Saturday, March 19, from four to eight p. m. The convention will be held in Turner hall, on Monday, March 21.

The plan of nomination is a radical change from methods which have heretofore prevailed in the democratic party in Toledo. The change is good, and it is the beginning of better politics. The primary system is the antithesis of the disgraceful scenes which were witnessed in Phoenix hall a year ago. That convention was the straw which broke that camel's back, and we must now admit that the extreme offensiveness of the proceedings of that convention worked its own good to the democratic party. Hereafter good politics will prevail and opportunity will be given every democrat in Toledo to record his vote for delegates to the city convention. The Bee appeals to the party to attend the primaries. During the four hours that the polls will be open every democrat will have time to attend. Grave responsibility rests upon the citizens of Toledo at present. Our debt is increasing, and our taxes have taken an upward jump. The best men in Toledo ought to be nominated and elected to office. The democratic party has its share of level-headed men who have no personal axes to grind from office holding. Such, and such only, should be nominated this spring. Attend the primaries. It is your duty to attend. Select good delegates; then the ticket they shall nominate will be worthy of the support of all good citizens at the polls.

KING CARNIVAL.

Rex Ruled the Hour in New Orleans Last Night.

New Orleans, March 1.—Last evening his majesty, Rex, the king of the carnival, entered his beloved capitol amid the most ostentatious display.

The reception was conducted on a most elaborate scale. As soon as the royal flotilla was sighted every vessel in the harbor blew its whistle while the booming of cannon (including the monster pieces of the Austrian vessel Aurora) and the blast of trumpets contributed to the rousing though discordant welcome.

His majesty was aboard the royal yacht Galveston, High Admiral Munger, duke of royal yacht, in command.

His majesty was attired in a most gorgeous and expensive costume representing a Turkish pasha, and was borne through the streets in a brilliantly decorated palanquin carried on the shoulders of four sturdy Turks.

HILL TO GO SOUTH.

The New York Senator Getting Over Into Cleveland's Territory.

Jackson, Miss., March 1.—Senator Hill telegraphed to Gov. Stone yesterday from Washington, as follows:

"Impossible to accept invitation for as early a date as March 5, but if the legislature will be in session on March 15, will be pleased to accept for that date. Please ascertain the situation and advise me at your earliest convenience."

The legislature immediately accepted the amendment. Senator Hill will receive an ovation when he visits the capital.

THIRD PARTY CANDIDATE.

Reported that Judge Gresham Has Been Slected for President.

Chicago, March 1.—A. W. Wright, a member of the national executive board of the Knights of Labor, is reported as saying that the presidential candidate of the third party will be Judge Walter Q. Gresham. Judge Gresham was interviewed, but would only reply "I don't know" when asked if it was true. He made the same reply when asked if he would accept such a nomination, and refused to talk further on the subject.

OUT FOR CAMPBELL.

Butler County Papers Stand by Campbell.

Hamilton, O., March 1.—The Daily Democrat and Butler County Democrat, the home papers, under the influence of ex-Gov. Campbell, yesterday declared for him for president. Mr. Campbell has said that he would refuse, if tendered him, the second place on the national ticket. He also has, in his interviews, said that the democracy must look to the west for its candidate for the presidency.

INDIAN AGREEMENT.

Pine Ridge Agency, S. D., March 1.—The council between the Rosebud and Pine Ridge Indians regarding the dividing line between the two agencies has ended and all parties are satisfied.

The question was a very difficult one to settle and caused much trouble to both the departments at Washington and the Indians.

The proceedings which ended on Sunday demonstrated that the Indians are capable of transacting business.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES.

Wapakoneta, March 1.—Rudolph Depenbrock to-day brought suit against the Wapakoneta Wheel company for $10,000 damages. Depenbrock was formerly employed at the wheel works, and while operating a lathe last November a flying bit struck him on the wrist and nearly severed his hand. The accident, which he claims was due to the defective machinery, has rendered his hand useless.

A CLEVELAND SLATE.

Atlanta, Ga., March 1.—The state central committee of the Cleveland movement in Georgia promulgated yesterday a lengthy call to the democrats, urging them to organize for Cleveland.

The call is signed by D. M. Blackburn, chairman; A. J. West, F. H. Richardson, Hooper Alexander, W. R. Hammond, state central committee.

SEIZED THE PLANT.

Chicago, March 1.—The Economical Gas company's sale of its valuable franchise to the Chicago Gas Trust was attacked tonight by resolutions adopted in the city council without dissenting voice, forfeiting the franchise on the ground of fraud. The mayor was instructed to take possession of the company's plant.

EXPRESS PACKAGE STOLEN.

Crookston, Minn., March 1.—The Northern Pacific was robbed of a five hundred dollar express package Friday morning.

The theft was not discovered until Saturday and has just been made public. S. H. Lenson, the night operator, is missing and suspicion points to him as the guilty man.

CLOSED BY THE SHERIFF.

Wooster, March 1.—The grocery and restaurant owned by Allen Nice was closed this morning by the sheriff on an execution in favor of local creditors. Wholesale grocers and fruit dealers in Cleveland, Canton and Massillon will suffer.

WAR CLOUDS.

New York, March 1.—A special to the Herald from San Salvador says the political horizon is very dark. War clouds are gathering on the frontier. Guatemala seems bent upon invading Salvador.

CONSERVATIVE VICTORY.

Montreal, March 1.—Mr. McMillan, conservative, has been elected in Vaudreuil for the house of commons by 35 majority, defeating Mr. Harwood, liberal.

OCEAN MARINE.

New York, March 1.—Arrived—Didam, Amsterdam; State of Nebraska, Glasgow.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

James Gondie, a Chicagoan, says he built the first transatlantic steamer, the Royal William.

Bronson Howard has been elected president of the American Dramatists' society. Thirty American playwrights have joined.

Prof. Angell, of the Sage School of Philosophy, at Ithaca, N. Y., has received a call to the Leland Stanford, Jr., university.

Less than 30 years ago President McLeod, of the Reading railroad, was a redman on the Northern Pacific. He is now the head of a 2,600-mile trunk line and the employer of 100,000 subordinates.

George B. McClellan, son of "Little Mac," is secretary of the bridge trustees in New York, and is very popular. In appearance and many traits of character he bears a strong resemblance to his father.

Congressman Hooker, of Mississippi, is one of many members who seem to regard a stovepipe white tie as a sort of badge of dignity to be worn in daylight and with any costume, instead of being confined, as by correct usage, to evening dress.

Prof. R. G. Moulton, of Cambridge, England, will fill the chair of English literature in Dr. Harper's Chicago university. The great apostle of university extension will find a vast difference between the literary atmosphere of sleepy, moss-grown and time-worn Cambridge, and busy, bustling and high-pressure Chicago.

One of the few genuine centenarians in the country is "Aunt Betsy" McKay, who is dying at the age of 106 years in Taylorville, Ky. She is a remarkable old lady, with eyesight still clear enough to enable her to read her Bible and a memory that enables her to recall for the edification of her friends the horrible massacre at "Pigeon's Roost" in the early Kentucky days, which she saw, and the story of the excitement aroused by the passage of the first steamboat down the Ohio. She has 112 descendants living.

MENTIONED ON THE STREETS.

That yesterday's weather was very Prof. Foster hereabouts.

That a few quiet bouts will be on at the athletic exhibition on Thursday evening.

That the fun must be crowded in tonight, as the Lenten season opens tomorrow.

That George Kirby is a quiet, sedate police judge, but somewhat of a terror to evil-doers.

That ex-Alderman Degnan has given up his trip to Ireland. Business holds him at home.

That the Y. W. C. A. anticipate a big supply of books as a result of the social to-morrow night.

That there is the usual interest in the prize fights which are to take place in the south this week.

That candidates will have a longer siege with the heelers this spring on account of the early conventions.

That ex-Councilman Daly will make another hustle for one of the Fourth ward seats in the council board this spring.

That a handsome amount was secured from the Day Nursery entertainment, which will aid greatly in carrying on the good work.

That prospects for democratic control of the next council are bright, and consequently some good offices will go to the faithful.

That since Walbridge hall has been turned into a dancing academy, political managers must seek other quarters for the conventions.

That the mayor is not being highly applauded for his mix-up in the scramble for the superintendency of the free employment bureau.

That would-be office-holders have been trying to catch Representative Griffin for some days, but he has not put in an appearance in three weeks.

That two or three of the dandy coppers will be called on the carpet at the police board meeting to-morrow night, to answer for alleged misdoings.

That it is easy to notice there is a good supply of "want ads" in the Bee from day to day, which is evidence the people of Toledo know a good thing.

That Collector Waldorf is a frequent visitor to the Sherman-McKinley headquarters at Columbus. Is it possible he is in the deal to throw Harrison?

That Hon. N. H. Swayne looks the veritable bank president that he is, while occupying the chair of Mr. Wilcox, at the Merchant's, during the latter's illness.

That St. Patrick's day arrangements are being completed in a business-like manner, which gives prospect of a monster parade, participated in by all the Catholic congregations.

That 'Squire Parker is thanking his stars because he holds over this year, and does not have to battle with the horde of candidates who are seeking the justice of the peace berths.

That a bill is about in shape to be dropped into the legislative hopper to raise the Dow saloon tax from $250 to $500, and its advocates think there is fair prospect for its passage.

A Tip to the Ex-Governor.

It may not be out of the way to remind Governor Campbell that he is stronger in Ohio in his own individuality than when used as a tail of another's kite, no matter how highly that other may be esteemed. Mr. Cleveland is almost universally honored and respected by Ohio democrats, and his nomination would be eminently satisfactory, but there are dangerous antagonisms to him which must be met, and which do not apply to Governor Campbell. There is no need of a New York fight in Ohio.—Steubenville Gazette.

To Benefit the Farmers.

The plank in the third party platform which declares that nobody shall work more than eight hours a day must amuse the farmers, in whose particular interest the platform is supposed to be constructed. The farmer who does not voluntarily work twelve hours a day is an exceedingly rare bird. However, the farmers have probably learned by this time that party platforms do not mean anything nowadays.—Boston Herald.

"Dark Horses" Abroad.

In picking out the unknown Loubet to form a cabinet President Carnot has probably been influenced unconsciously by the American idea of a "dark horse" and by the pleasant recollection that he himself had been a presidential dark horse.—N. Y. World.

Regular Raum Methods.

Commissioner Raum's method of "courting a full and free inquiry" into his management of the pension office appears to be to intimidate the only people able to testify against him with threats of immediate discharge.—Chicago Times.

A Staying Prince.

Mr. Noble got rid of young Prince Raum, and his testimony shows he is rather proud of it. But there is no ridding the administration of young Prince Russell.—St. Louis Republic.

Republican Futures.

"Dealings in futures" continues to be the great question holding the attention of republican statesmen. Alger's future, by the way, seems to have dropped far below par.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Warning.

Germany's emperor should remember that it was a mob which started the movement that sent a ruler to the scaffold and almost exterminated the French aristocracy.—Detroit Free Press.

STRUCK WITH A STONE.

Springfield, O., March 1.—Police Prosecutor Will Horner was violently assaulted in the extreme west end of the city by young Fred Moore, who, after passing him, struck him on the head with a boulder, and left him bleeding and unconscious on the ground, where he was found some moments later by pedestrains.

It was at first thought Mr. Horner's skull was fractured, but further investigation showed not. Moore, when arrested, said he thought Horner was going to assault him. Horner is confined to the house.

TOLEDO BRIDGE COMPANY

Enters Into Possession of the Smith Plant.

Who Will Control the Institution—Success Will Follow Without Doubt.

This morning the Smith Bridge company stepped down and out, and the Toledo Bridge company stepped up and in. In other words, the immense bridge constructing plant in East Toledo has changed hands and the Toledo Bridge company, the new possessor, assumed the management of the establishment this morning. This is one of the most extensive manufacturing institutions in Toledo, and the transfer, which was announced several weeks ago by the Bee, involved many thousands of dollars.

The deal, which was consummated this morning, has been pending for over a year. The Toledo Bridge company has been incorporated for over a year. The company never owned a plant, but did a heavy contract business. Mr. Huston, the new manager, Mr. Smith, the secretary, and Mr. Zwilling, the superintendent, are all bridge men, and former employes of the Smith Bridge company. They are thorough business men, practical in bridge engineering and construction, and with the co-operation of the other officials, who are men of unusual financial ability, the success of the new corporation is assured.

The engineering department will be in charge of Messrs. H. O. Dewer, C. L. Gates and M. J. Riggs, gentlemen thoroughly skilled in the profession.

TERRIBLY CRUSHED.

Wapakoneta, O., March 1.—Edward Lyman, a drayman, of this city, aged 22 years, met with a terrible accident which will probably terminate fatally.

While engaged in unloading some barrels of vinegar, the slippery condition of the dray caused him to fall to the ground. While prostrate one of the barrels, weighing nearly four hundred pounds, fell on his chest, breaking several of his ribs and otherwise badly crushing him.

FOUR THOUSAND MIXERS

Ruthlessly Destroyed by Consumers of City Gas.

The Bee's Statement of Last December Verified.

The Board at Last Takes Action in the Matter—Mr. Backus' Figures Relative to Consumption of Gas for Illuminating Purposes Disputed.

Last December, when the Bee made the statement that a majority of the mixers used by consumers of city gas had been bored out and practically ruined, there was a hue and cry raised. It was a Standard Oil lie, and the sycophants who were and are afraid to tell the truth howled at this attempt "to smash the city's credit."

At the meeting of the gas board last evening, in reply to a direct question of the new member, Mr. Voit, the manager coolly announced that 4,000 out of the 6,000 mixers had thus been ruthlessly destroyed.

The Bee said then, and proclaims again now, that this wholesale destruction of property was an outrage. Not a single consumer was benefited, and the city has lost thousands upon thousands of dollars in wasted gas and ruined material.

Reynold Voit, the newly appointed trustee, took his seat for the first time at the meeting of the board last evening. He presented his commission, which was duly filed.

Dr. Jones, from the committee on claims presented a schedule of bills that were ordered paid.

The pay roll of trustees, $400, and that of the officers, $1,330, were presented, and the same ordered paid.

Mr. Burdick, from the mayor's committee, asked information relative to gas territory, wells, plant outside and inside the city, and many matters pertaining to the department generally.

Mr. Voit moved that the request be granted, and the manager was instructed to furnish the information at as early a date as possible.

Manager Heston made a lengthy report on the meeting held at Luna recently relative to greater economy in the use of natural gas. The particulars have already appeared in the Bee.

Mr. Heston also presented a petition relative to the same matter, and the petition was adopted and ordered placed in circulation and forwarded to the legislature when signed by as many consumers as possible.

Mr. Yates, of Perry township, asked for gas for two stoves as per his contract.

Mr. Voit moved that the request be complied with.

Mr. Backus was opposed to selling gas outside when they had not enough for home consumers.

Mr. Parsons said the well from which the gas was to come was eight miles from the main line. The request was granted.

Manager Heston stated that owing to the increased pressure in the city lines he had directed that new mixers be furnished where the old ones had been bored out, etc.

It was decided not to allow consumers to employ any gas fitter they may choose without consent of the gas department.

Manager Heston recommended that meters be placed where removed, and that meters generally be furnished consumers as fast as possible.

The following is a synopsis of the receipts and disbursements for January:

Gas sold	$15,874
Meter account	1,002
Total	17,872
Balance in treasury	6,187

In reply to Mr. Backus, Manager Heston said he was not quite prepared to make a report on the illuminating gas matter which Mr. Backus brought to the attention of the board at the last meeting. He was at work, however, and would report at the next meeting.

Mr. Backus said many were using gas for which they pay nothing.

Mr. Voit said he was opposed to any one getting gas free.

Mr. Backus said some of the officers knew of many cases where this was done.

Mr. Parsons asked if he referred to the trustees.

Mr. Backus said the trustees ought to know and did unless they were blind.

Mr. Parsons said if the trustees were interested as much as some in illuminating gas they might know about it.

Mr. Backus asked the manager if Draper & Nugent had contracts for 25 burners.

Manager Heston said they had a contract for 25 tips.

President Parsons then presented the following interesting and self-explanatory list that appear on the face of them to knock the charges preferred by Mr. Backus galley west:

John E. Parsons, President, Toledo, O.:

Dear Sir—In accordance with your request I had Mr. Girvin, foreman of gas fitters of this department, make a careful and accurate test, by meter prover, of the amount of natural gas consumed by the following named burners, per hour, for illuminating, and herewith give the result:

	Cubic feet per hour.
No. 60 Jumbo (largest size)	7 4-10
No. 40 Jumbo	2 2-10
Newmarket	7 2-10
Clough	5 4-10
Sunflower	7 3-10
Argand	4 2-10
Niagara, No. 1	4 5-10
Niagara, No. 2	6
Welsbach	1 6-10
No. 3 mixer	16 3-10
Common 3 ft. illuminating gas tip	4

Yours respectfully,
WM. P. HESTON,
Manager.

Comparison of cubic feet of natural gas consumed for illuminating in six hours, the average daily use of gas, or other illuminants, by different burners, as given by Mr. Backus, and the amount that is actually consumed, as ascertained by a careful and accurate test, made by Mr. Girvin, with a meter prover, viz:

Burner.	Amount stated by Mr. Backus.	By actual test.
Burner	120 cubic feet	44 cubic feet.
Niagara	150 cubic feet.	36 cubic feet.
Argand	120 cubic feet.	25 cubic feet.

The cost of gas at 8 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, by above burners, per month, as given by Mr. Backus, and the actual cost by test:

Burner.	By Mr. Backus.	Actual cost.
Jumbo	29 cents.	10 1-2 cents.
Niagara	36 cents.	8 1-2 cents.
Argand	29 cents.	6 cents.

Mr. Backus remarked his figures were furnished by experts.

Mr. Parsons said the actual tests as furnished by him were made in the cellar where the pressure was as high as anywhere in the city.

After some discussion the report was placed on file.

Supt. O'Herron said he was ready and willing to swear that his tests were correct.

On motion the matter was referred to the committee on prices with instructions to make rates for tips for which provision has not already been made in the board's schedule of rates.

Mr. Voit asked the manager if he could give a rough estimate of the number of mixers that had been bored out and were not regulation size.

Manager Heston said he thought it would reach 4,000.

This did not seem to create much of a surprise among the trustees, although when the Bee made a somewhat similar statement last December it was roundly denounced. It will be found that time will demonstrate the truth of every allegation made by the Bee.

NOT A CANDIDATE.

Columbus, O., March 1.—Senator Hildebrand, of Ashland county, has come to the front as a possibility for the republican nomination for secretary of state, and this afternoon a number of republican senators called upon him and asked him if he would be a candidate. The senator says he will not be a candidate.

THE DOTY BILL

Causes Some Discussion in the School Board,

Ending in the Adoption of a Resolution Favoring the Measure, "If the Legislature Sees Fit."

The board of education met in regular session last evening, with all members present but Mr. Schlingman.

A committee from the Woman's Suffrage association consisting of Mesdames E. S. Fray, R. L. Segur and A. B. Cole, was present in the interest of the resolutions submitted at the last meeting indorsing the Doty bill, recently introduced in the legislature, giving women the right of suffrage in school board elections.

President Hubbard introduced the ladies, and Mrs. Fray, acting as speaker for the committee, addressed the board for a few minutes. She said that mothers have the welfare and better interests of the schools at heart to a greater extent than the men, and they should surely have a voice in their management. The board as a public body should indorse the resolutions submitted. Other school boards over the state had taken such action, and it was no more than just and reasonable for this board to do so.

Mr. Broer stated that the board had always kept out of political controversies, and he was not in favor of taking issue in this one.

Mr. Major said he was opposed to the bill and the resolution indorsing it. With due respect to the ladies who were making such an earnest fight for what they deemed their rights, he looked deep into the problem, and as a result apprehended developments that would be disastrous to the good of the public schools of Toledo as well as the state. He referred to the Catholic church, and stated that the board had been troubled considerably by that faction. He stated further that there were perhaps 10,000 voters in Toledo, 6,000 of whom were Protestants and the remaining 4,000 Catholics. This number would be greatly increased if the women were allowed to vote. The addition of the women to the number would not necessarily change the difference between the number of votes cast to any great extent, at least not to overcome the majority. He apprehended, however, that the Catholics would get out every vote, while the Protestants would not get out one-half, and as a result the schools would soon be under Catholic management. He never would vote for any measure that would accomplish that end.

Mr. Hubbard stated that the legislature was able to pass upon the bill, and that if it was an unjust law it would not prevail.

Dr. Beckwith favored indorsing the resolutions as submitted, and made a motion to that effect, which received a second. The members then held a short conference, at the conclusion of which the following resolution was submitted:

Resolved, That we indorse the resolutions on file relative to the Doty bill, and would recommend the passage of the bill if the legislature sees fit.

Dr. Beckwith objected to the amendment, and insisted on his motion.

A vote was taken which resulted six to two against the resolutions. The nays were: Messrs. Major, Trost, Broer, Zirwas, Opitz, Eversman; yeas, Messrs. Beckwith and Hubbard.

The regular schedule of monthly bills were allowed, and the board adjourned.

PRESENTATION.

Pleasant Affair at the Smith Bridge Company.

Mr. W. S. Daly and Mr. Daniel Howells Receive Tokens of Esteem and Good Feeling.

The Smith Bridge company wound up its affairs yesterday, and by this deal Mr. W. S. Daly retires from business. In this connection a very pleasant event occurred in the office yesterday afternoon, when the office employes presented Mr. Daly with a token of their esteem in the form of a magnificent and costly Knights Templar jewel. The presentation was made in a neat speech by Mr. C. L. Gates, and Mr. Daly responded with much feeling.

Mr. Daly commenced with the Smith Bridge company when a young man 18 years ago. He was then a salesman, but by his industry, push and integrity he made his way upward until he was president and general manager of the firm. He now retires from business with well earned laurels, and in the coming spring will leave for a six months' trip abroad.

Mr. Daniel Howells is also an old employe of the Smith Bridge company who leaves with the change of management, and yesterday the employes presented him with a fine gold-handled silk umbrella, suitably engraved. Mr. Howells had been in the employ of the concern 22 years, and was chief engineer.

INCENDIARY FIRE.

Dalton, O., March 1.—The engine room and coal tipple of Messrs. Pocock & Wilson have been totally destroyed by fire. Engineer Beck discovered the building on fire twice and extinguished the blaze, but the third attempt was successful and everything was consumed. The fire was of incendiary origin.

DR. KARL VIRCHOW SCHICK

HIS ARRIVAL IN TOLEDO.

A man whose name has been made famous as the great Germ Discoverer of the Present Century.

Has he Discovered the Fountain of Perpetual Youth?

His methods now known as the SCHICK SYSTEM.

Dr. Schick has engaged Parlors at the Hotel Jefferson, where any one desirous of consulting him may do so Monday, March 7, to Thursday, March 31, inclusive.

Consultation, Examination & Treatment FREE.

The time has come when men of genius are being recognized, and wherever they have made any new discovery in art or science that benefits all mankind, the people are ever ready to appreciate it and investigate their claims.

During the last decade many new and valuable discoveries have been made in the healing art, both in this country and in Europe; but none have been more potent and valuable than the late discoveries of the great German physician, Dr. Karl Virchow Schick, in the germ treatment of chronic diseases. So rapidly did the sufferers from all forms of chronic diseases recover under this new treatment that within four months after the discovery was made, sixty-one physicians had purchased his formula, and were using it to the exclusion of all others. Eight months later his fame had spread throughout all Europe as well as this country. The entire medical world is converted to his faith, and 806 physicians have adopted his methods.

Arrangements have already been consummated for building a large Institute bearing his name at Chicago, also a building has been leased for the same purpose at Cincinnati, 103 Garfield Place, and opened to the public Jan. 1st last. The first Institution of this kind was opened in Boston, at 1508 Washington St., a year ago, and so overwhelming a demonstration did Dr. Schick receive from the sick and suffering that he has been encouraged to continue with the results at Cincinnati and Chicago as stated above. So numerous have been the letters of inquiry from every city in Ohio as to how they could obtain this treatment, what it was, and what it would do, Dr. Schick finally consented to adopt the advice of his manager, and make a visit to Toledo, and thus give those who desired an opportunity to see him personally.

It is certainly very gratifying that we are able to state to all our readers that Dr. Karl Virchow Schick will be in Toledo, on Monday, March 7, 1892, and remain until March 31, at the Hotel Jefferson. All those who are suffering from any form of chronic diseases may during the week commencing Monday, March 7, have an opportunity to see and consult with this great scientist, who certainly has astonished the entire German Empire with the discovery that a Germ was the cause of all chronic as well as acute diseases, and that he could entirely remove the same without the knife or any of the old time honored methods.

On his arrival in Boston his fame had so far preceded that all day long during consultation hours the streets about resounded with the rumbling of carriages filled with suffering wealth, fashion and intellect of New England, who mingled with those whose poverty but increased their ills, all bound for the now famous doctor whose scientific knowledge of the microscope had developed the deadly Germ, which through the ignorance of the medical fraternity had carried so many to an untimely grave. Surely in the hands of this doctor the most insidious and mysterious diseases vanish like the winds, and his skill turns the deathbed into a pillow of health.

The continually increasing list of wonder from those who have been cured of Cancer and Consumption in its apparent last stages. Tumors located in any part of the body (without operation), Paralysis, Epilepsy, Scrofula, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Deafness, Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Nervous Prostration, and in fact all chronic and acute diseases, with those peculiar to women, that have long since baffled the time honored remedies, seem to yield like magic to the Schick system. Owing to the large number of persons unable to see the doctor during his stay in the eastern cities, he has consented to lengthen his hours of consultation each day, and can therefore be seen in our city from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M., and 7 to 8 EVE. As these are the only days that can be devoted to this city, it is especially desired that we say to our readers, Dr. Schick has consented to spend the above time at Toledo, but no other city or town will be visited as he returns at once to his Institute in Cincinnati.

For the purpose of extending his already world-wide popularity, Dr. Schick will, commencing March 7, and continuing every day until March 31, give to all those who desire such examination, advice and treatment, as may be indicated in each individual case, entirely free of charge; thus giving sufferers from all forms of chronic diseases personal attention, and thereby all the advantages of this new system, which has worked such marvelous cures in Boston, Cincinnati and vicinity. Although the time and expense to him in giving this free treatment will cost $5000, yet he feels that the number he will treat will be so large, the cures he will make so varied, the good he will do will cover so large a field, that the advertisement will be double what could be obtained with the expenditure of $10,000 in any other way. He also hopes to bring to the notice of all invalids his elegant sanitarium as well as his special system of practice. All that he asks in return is that every patient treated will appoint themselves a committee of one to state to all their friends the results obtained in their individual cases by the Schick System.

TRUE TO THE LAST.

A man said unto his angel:
"My spirits are fallen through,
And I cannot carry this battle;
O, brother, what shall I do?

"The terrible kings are on me
With spears that are deadly bright;
Against me so from the cradle
Do fate and my fathers fight?"

Then said to the man his angel:
"Thou wavering, foolish soul,
Back to the ranks! What matter
To win or lose the whole?

"Adjudged by the little judges
Who hearken not well nor see;
Not thus, by the outer issue
The wise shall interpret thee.

"Thy will is the very, the only,
The solemn event of things;
The weakest of hearts defying,
Is stronger than all these kings.

"Though out of the paths they gather,
Mind's Doubt and Bodily Pain,
And pallid thirst of the Spirit
That is kin to the other twain.

"And Grief, in a cloud of banners,
And ringleted Vain Desires,
And Vice, with the spoils upon him
Of thee and thy beaten sires.

"What hands soever have armed them
Toward victory still to ride,
A meaning left to the rebel,
A use to the regicide.

"So bitter and large a meaning,
A vehement use so true,
One steady intent to scorn them
Doth scorn them and slay them, too!

"While kings of eternal evil
Yet darken the hills about,
Thy part is with broken sabre
To rise on the last redoubt;

"To fear not sensible failure,
Nor covet the game at all,
But fighting, fighting, fighting,
Die, driven against the wall!"

Meaning of the St. Louis Industrial Convention.

More Harmonious Action Than Was Expected.

Some Afterthoughts on the St. Louis Convention—The Third Party and Its Issues—The Onlookers.

Special Correspondence Toledo Bee.

St. Louis, Feb. 29.—There are two views to be taken of such a convention as that held in St. Louis last week. One has been fully covered by the press dispatches; the number of organizations represented; their agreements and antagonisms; the compromise platform on which they reached a seeming unification, and the third political party which is born of it. The other view, which did not fail to strike one behind the scenes and uninfluenced by the momentary entanglements of the convention, has been scarcely brought to public attention, but only this shows the real significance of the movement.

All that it was attempted to accomplish in the convention, and all that was done, may result in nothing but, (and this is what is seen from the second point of view) if the program for this year is a failure, that result may only solidify where now there is disorganization, and effect concentration in purpose and action where now there is disunion and disorder.

The Strength of the Movement.

Some of the things which confirm this impression are these: The convention showed unity in this, all its delegates agreed that present industrial conditions are unsatisfactory, that a change must be effected by legislation, and that no existing party will or can be trusted to make these changes. This is a fundamental and very significant basis of agreement, and it is certainly the ground on which the industrialists as represented in this convention stand.

Nothing demonstrates this more clearly than the indifference shown in the convention toward the tariff issue. It was not mentioned a dozen times, and then only incidentally, and every mention of it was received with laughter. Now, recognizing that the tariff issue is the leading one between the two dominant parties, it is clear that the third party people have sincerely rebelled against the policy of both old parties.

Again, on the silver question, where confessedly the old parties are divided, the new party comes to the front with a policy which, however unwise, is clearly defined and enthusiastically accepted by all the discontented people.

This is one indication that a third party has been born with a longer life before it than its own convention proceedings indicates. The next thing to note is how wide-spread is this revolt, and how great numbers are included in it. There was not a section of the country which was not represented in the conference, the lightest representation coming from the section east of the Alleghanies and north of the Potomac, and the largest from west of the Mississippi. No one who examined credentials together with the basis of representation can doubt that millions of the voters of this country are ready for the change, and have no hope but in the change. Whether they are right or not, they are in earnest. Failure this year will mean another lesson in the science of politics, but it will not mean ultimate defeat.

The Weakness of the Movement.

The wild and diverse theories of change advanced and advocated in the convention, and more particularly before the committees, are an indication that some sharp lessons in practical politics will be necessary before the sunlight of success will fall upon the banner of the new party. It seemed as though the dream of all visionaries of all ages had been embodied in the resolutions that came before the platform committee. This would not matter so much if there was not so much earnest conviction written into each one of them, and if, for the most part, they did not formulate opinions which a fair number believe vital to the new movement. In the convention hall and in the hotel corridors, on the streets and in the dozens of side show conferences, could always be found men with theories for settling everything, and men who accepted the theories.

Another element of weakness of course, is the opinion of a minority that independent political action is not the road to reform. This has been made the most of in the press dispatches, and there is very little of it. The attempt of Livingston, of Georgia, opponent of the third party movement, and an exceedingly able man, to obtain a following in the convention, and his failure, indicates this. It will be said that the convention may not be a representative one, and that the people, when it comes to voting, may repudiate the action of their chosen leaders. This will be true of a minority, but with the majority the repudiation will be because the leaders have not gone far enough, not because they have gone too far.

Here are two strong weaknesses, if I may be allowed the expression, of the new movement at the present stage. The convention platform will not satisfy the majority, that majority being divided into fragmentary schisms who desire to try a diversity of impracticable things; and it will not satisfy a minority, who did not and do not want a new party.

The compromise on the finance plank of the platform is the outgrowth of the endeavor to placate this disorganized majority, and its reception by the convention indicates its reception by the people. The issue of a national currency direct to the people was acceptable, but after hours of wrangling work, and taking of testimony, the committee could only report vaguely as to the "how" of it. Like all compromises, it displeased more than it satisfied. When, in the report, the clause was reached which reads, "to be provided as set forth in the sub-treasury plan of the Farmers' alliance," a cheer went up from the adherents of that scheme, but when the next clause was read, "or some better plan," it was the other fellows' turn to cheer.

The finance plank of the platform is also very weak in that it is open to so many interpretations, and it was necessary it should be so presented to get it adopted at all, because it is on this question of finance the people in this movement are most at sea and most divided.

Another weakness of the movement lies in the sectional feeling of the south. On the very morning when the platform was reported, there was a theatre reunion of "the blue and the gray" on the platform, and the two factions, after once more "burying sectional strife in a common grave"—with a chestnut headstone—waved the flag over the head of the colored man and brother who stood upon the platform handy for that purpose. Those who had been with the committee on platform all the night before best realized what rocket-and-stick fireworks this was. All night long the committee had listened to the delegates who represented "we of the south, sah!" the gentlemen of Virginia, North Carolina, or Tennessee, or some other southern state. These men want the sub-treasury plan, and if the rest of the country needs Sorghing more they are as profoundly ignorant of it as they are of every other question of national importance. A delegate from Virginia said, "I have been in this movement two years, sah! and my constituents must have what they want, sah! or count us out." He represented all the south when he said it, and yet will this third party be far from accomplishing anything if it cannot carry a southern state?

Another reason why the south cannot be counted on is that the white men are afraid that the outnumbering negroes will achieve political supremacy through a successful people's party movement. And the white men of the south would not like that any better than would the white man of Ohio. The Colored alliance is an element of weakness in this new movement. The organization was represented in the convention by drunken, dirty white men and by illiterate negroes. If the best was sent, as may be presumed, they are not fit for the exercise of the ballot, still less for predominance in politics and control of legislation.

What the Ticket May Be.

How the platform was made and adopted, the conference closed, and reopened in a way to form the third party you know. Also that the executive committee has set July 4, for a national convention, and Omaha as the place. According to the basis fixed, there will be 1,776 delegates. The enthusiasts for the movement point to these figures as of special significance, in connection with "the new declaration of independence." This is what they call Ignatius Donnelly's preamble to the platform which, regarded as a literary production, is certainly worth reading. By the way, they called him Pugnacious Donnelly at the convention.

Now, whom will the presidential lightning of the third party strike? Polk, of the Southern alliance, was the favorite name previous to the convention, but he is not so generally considered for the first place now. He made a wretched presiding officer, partly because he was sick all through the convention, and the measure of his ability shrunk perceptibly before the eyes of the delegates. The man who made the most marked and favorable impression in the convention as far as personal and executive ability is concerned was T. V. Powderly. But he, for a number of sufficient reasons, will not head the ticket. Had the votes of the delegates been polled then and there, and if in them had been vested the power to nominate, Gen. Weaver would have been the man chosen. Doubtless of those in the convention, ninety-nine out of the hundred went home to talk for Weaver and Polk, or Weaver and Powderly, until the July convention. Then, it may be, they will hear what the hundredth man heard at St. Louis, and Walter Q. Gresham may be named as the head of the ticket, with Col. Polk for second place.

Strange as it may seem, this is the slate of the real (and very few) slate makers who were in the St. Louis conference. If the Bee is the first to announce it, it is no less certain that the announcement is made on the genuine program, and it is given on the authority of one in the inner councils of the industrial movement, and a leader worthy of the trust reposed in him. It is argued that Judge Gresham has the presidential mania, that the republican party will never accept him as its nominee, that his decisions in all questions involving the rights of the people v. the monopolists have endeared him to the people, and that the third party, accepting as its leader a man of the high national reputation Judge Gresham sustains, can do great things; can even, in the event of anticipated splits and disaffections in the old parties, sweep the country.

The question first asked will be, "Will Judge Gresham accept this nomination?" and on the answer to that, certainly doubtful, much depends. As strange combinations have been before entered into by men of high and defeated political aspirations, yet the assertion made on the quiet that he will accept must be taken with several grains of salt.

Some of the Onlookers.

One of the notable things in this convention was the number of women on the platform and among the delegates. In addition to Frances Willard and Lady Henry Somerset, there was Mrs. General Weaver, a silver-haired, sweetfaced lady attending her first convention; Miss Kate Cunningham, editor of the Woman's Chronicle; Miss Harlow, of the Non-Conformist; Mrs. S. E. V. Emery and Dr. Julia Green, of Michigan; Mrs. Lease, who, by the way, has been most ungenerously misrepresented in the press as masculine; and a host of others. Mrs. Lease is Irish, born in Limerick, that country, and has all the eloquence in public and charm in conversation that appears to be a gift to the sons and daughters of that soil.

Messrs. Streeter and Cunningham who headed the Union labor ticket in the presidential campaign eight years ago, were in the convention. Both were silent, and sick with grip. It was the only grip they had. Few who met them even knew them, and they have no place in the present movement. Another man present and altogether out of it was Ralph Beaumont, at one time a leader in the knights, and the organizer of the first citizens alliance. A number of prominent single-taxers were onlookers. They came with credentials, and would have been given seats, but that they declined them, not knowing what the platform might be, and not wishing to commit their organizations to it. Congressman Jerry Simpson was there. He wore socks and eyeglasses, and conducted himself more like a Boston gentleman of culture than a Kansas breeze, having a good deal of influence in the convention, and exercising it discreetly. Congressman Moses, of Georgia, an anti-third party delegate, was the wild man of the convention. Mr. Boice, business manager of the Arena, and Hamlin Garland, its subeditor, and author of "Main Traveled Roads," were at the convention, and were delegates. Mr. Boice was on the platform committee; Mr. Garland, I suppose, was studying characters for his next novel. The Arena will not be committed to the new party.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Private Secretary at Wheeler's Last Night.

Held by the Enemy at the People's—Niobe—Paul Kauvar.

That bright comedy of Gillette's, the Private Secretary, was presented at Wheeler's last evening by an excellent company under the direction of Mr. Edwin Travers, who played the role of Douglas Cattermole, the wild young nephew.

Mr. W. W. Fairbanks played Rev. Robert Spaulding, the innocent, and the other characters of this well-known piece were in good hands.

The night was a bad one, but notwithstanding this, the audience was a good sized one and very appreciative.

Held by the Enemy.

A large audience, considering the weather, greeted the opening performance of Held by the Enemy at the People's last night. This splendid drama of William Gillette's, which has proved a favorite everywhere, deals with the civil war and the events of those times.

The plot is strong, the dialogue bright and the situations good. The tone of the piece is healthy and wholesome throughout and contains nothing sectional that can hurt the feelings of either side.

The company presenting the piece is one of great merit and each one brings out all there is in the character represented.

The military features are true to life and some clever stage setting is used.

The performance last night received hearty applause and the piece will undoubtedly play to a heavy week's business.

Niobe.

Niobe, a comedy which the New York critics were unanimous in pronouncing to be one of the most delightful entertainments seen in the metropolis in many years, will be at the Wheeler on Thursday night. This is the same comedy which ran for 100 nights in Boston and for over 100 nights in New York, and was welcomed as a novelty from the so-called farce-comedies of the present day.

Niobe is the work of Harry and Edward Paulton who made a name for themselves as the authors of the libretto of Erminie. It is said to be a high class comedy, in which the characters are drawn from the types of the men and women of the present day, with the exception of Niobe, who is a prehistoric personage and whose coming to life in the nineteenth century surroundings is the cause of endless merriment and confusion.

Abbott & Teal's comedy company, the same which played in New York and elsewhere will be seen here, and comprises the following well-known people: Miss Isabella Coe, Miss Mabel Bert, Mrs. J. H. Fitzpatrick, Miss Maud Edna Hall, Miss Jessie Storey, Miss Ruth Hamilton, Miss Josie Stopher and Messrs. George R. Edeson, Charles Coote, Revel Germain, Arthur F. Buchanan and J. C. Burbidge. This is the original New York cast and the same special scenery and equipments used in the New York production will be seen here and the performance itself will be under the personal supervision of the well-known stage director Ben Teal, joint proprietor of the comedy.

Not "Blood and Thunder."

It must not be imagined that Paul Kauvar is filled with gunshots, "blood and thunder," and sword cuts simply because the scenes of the play are laid in France during the revolution of 1794, for such is not the case. While the drama presents many scenes and incidents of those thrilling times in a manner true to life and founded upon historical facts, it also discloses a most beautiful story of manly sacrifice and womanly devotion.

Humor, pathos and comedy are so artistically blended with a tale of intense interest to form as a whole one of the strongest plays on the American stage. Paul Kauvar will be presented at the Wheeler opera house for three performances, commencing Friday evening, March 4.

CITY LEGISLATION.

A Goodly Grind Started in the Council.

East Toledo is Heard on the Fire Limit Question—The Lagrange Street Pavement—The Annexation Ordinance.

The board of councilmen met last evening and in a rather lengthy session disposed of considerable business and also started a large amount of new legislation. A few discussions occurred, but as a whole the meeting was quite harmonious.

The new business was as follows:

From Mr. Albrecht, a resolution to establish the grade of George street, from Locust to Lagrange, referred to the street committee; resolution for a new sewer in Lagrange street, referred to the sewer committee.

A resolution from Mr. Ray instructing the engineer to drain Ravine alley was also referred to the sewer committee.

Mr. Coleman presented resolutions to change the position of several electric lights on Segur avenue and to construct crosswalks on Oliver street, which were referred.

He also presented resolutions, which were adopted, directing the engineer to prepare an estimate of the cost of a bridge over Swan creek at Williams and Erie streets; and to compel the Consolidated street railway to run cars on Western avenue.

Mr. Caldwell sent in a resolution to grade the alley between Front and First streets, East Toledo. This was referred.

On motion of Mr. Morganthaler the city clerk was instructed to return to Patrick Kelley $25, which he had deposited with a sidewalk bid.

A resolution to construct a plank sidewalk on the east side of Erie street, in front of lot 109, Vistula, introduced by Mr. Pheatt, was adopted.

A resolution, from Mr. Rutherford, directing the street commissioner to repair the plank road on South street, from Broadway to the canal, was referred.

Mr. Taylor presented an amendment to the ordinance for the construction of sewers. This provides that no bill for extra lumber shall be allowed, and was referred to the sewer committee.

Mr. Walker introduced a resolution instructing the engineer to make a survey of Ferrer street, from Junction avenue to Hawley street, for the purpose of determining the advisability of widening the street.

This seems like a large amount of new business, and it really is more than is usually sent in during a session, but often the same quantity of new legislation will be started during the week. The spring election is approaching, however, and as the councilmen want their constituents to know all about the business they introduce they now present their resolutions at a meeting of the full board and have them referred. In this way everybody will see where the legislation comes from, while on the other hand when it is introduced in the committee, oftentimes nobody knows who is the originator. Most of the members whose terms expire are candidates for re-election, and they want their constituents to know that they are still on earth.

When the committee business was taken up last night, the ordinance to amend the fire limits met with a vigorous protest from the East Side, which had been left out of the fire limits altogether.

Mr. Caldwell presented a petition from East Side people requesting that the old fire limits in the Sixth ward be restored, and after some discussion this was done.

From the street committee ordinances were passed to improve Chase street, to re-establish the grade of Beacon street, to establish the grade of Second street, and a resolution to pave Beacon street.

A resolution was also adopted to build a sewer in Walnut street.

After the committee business had been acted upon President Hassenzahl called Vice President Coleman to the chair, and then moved that the resolution from the street committee, rejecting the bids for paving Lagrange street, from Bancroft to Champlain, be laid upon the table. This was carried, and on another motion of Mr. Hassenzahl the committee decided to award the contract to the lowest bidder on fire brick.

Engineer Wickenden presented a report on the cost of a new bridge over Swan creek at Perry street and estimated that it will cost $80,000.

A communication was presented from the Toledo Gas Light and Coke company accepting the new illuminating gas ordinance, fixing the price at $1.10 per thousand.

A communication was also read from the board of police commissioners urging the council to remove the city pound, which has become an intolerable nuisance where it now is located.

The first business from the board of aldermen was the ordinance to increase the salary of the assistant city solicitor from $1,200 to $1,500 per year and that of the mayor's clerk from $40 to $60 per month. Mr. Pheatt moved that this be referred back to the committee on ways and means, but this motion was defeated.

He then moved that the salaries of the city clerk and the chief of the fire department be increased from $2,000 to $2,200 per year. This was adopted, and the ordinance afterwards referred to the committee.

The resolution directing the engineer to build a partition in the matron's room at the police station called forth some discussion, and Mr. Hassenzahl stated that there was some dissatisfaction with the manner in which the work had been done. The resolution was finally adopted.

Other business from the board of aldermen was passed.

The annexation ordinance came before the board on its second reading, and on motion of Mr. Swayne it was amended to leave out a portion of West Toledo. The ordinance as amended then passed the third reading.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

To the Editor: In your last Friday's issue you gave a few interviews with attorneys on the subject of salaries for justices of the peace. While they were all of them in favor of the salary, some of them thought the justices should be attorneys, and the law should so specify. Now, will these attorneys look up the present law and see in how many of the courts the judges must be lawyers?

QUERIST.

SUPERSTITIOUS PEASANTRY.

It is noticed as a curious fact that in some of the famine districts in Russia the peasantry appear inclined to ascribe the responsibility for their suffering to the local medical practitioners, just as happened at St. Petersburg during the cholera epidemic in the reign of the Emperor Nicholas, when doctors were mobbed in the street and maltreated by the populace, who accused them of poisoning their patients. Several medical men have already fled in terror of their lives from the towns and villages in the province of Voronez.—New York Post.

ANARCHISTS WILL STAY IN

The Illinois Supreme Court is Sustained.

Joliet Will Continue to Hold Its Prisoners.

Decision Rendered in the Bering Sea Case of the Sealing Schooner W. P. Sayward.

Washington, March 1.—The supreme court of the United States has extinguished the last hope of the two imprisoned anarchists by affirming the decision of the supreme court of Illinois in the cases of Samuel Fielden and Michael Schwab v. the warden of Joliet prison.

These two men were sentenced to be hanged with Spies and the other anarchists for complicity in the famous Haymarket riot in Chicago, but their sentences were commuted to life imprisonment by the governor.

In the application for writs of habeas corpus which the court to-day denied, counsel for the two men alleged that their sentence was in violation of the constitution because the men were not in court in person when the Illinois supreme court rendered judgment sustaining decision of the circuit court and resentenced them, and that their right to say why sentence should not be passed upon them had been denied.

It was also contested that while the governor of Illinois had power to commute the sentence, no warrant was given by law for the execution of that commutation. Certain other minor points were also brought in.

Justice Harlan, who delivered the opinion of the court, first took up the ground that the prisoners had been denied due process because not present when the Illinois supreme court passed sentence.

The opinion says the supreme court of Illinois was not one of original jurisdiction. The whole argument in trial of the prisoners, it says, proceeds upon the assumption that the supreme court of Illinois pronounced the sentence of death, and such is not the fact. The sentence was pronounced by the court of Cook county and the supreme court of Illinois merely refixed the day in conformity with the criminal code in Illinois.

The court holds that no constitutional right of the prisoners was denied by the supreme court refusing to enter on its record the fact that Schwab and Fielden were not present when judgment was pronounced. In reading the opinion the justice made no mention of the point that the governor could commute the sentence but could not provide for its execution.

Ben Butler, the counsel for the anarchists, was present when the announcement was made. The decision was unanimous.

Justice Harlan, in his decision, recites the fact that under the common law, it is indispensable in capital cases that inquiry be made of defendants before judgment was passed whether he had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced upon him. "But," says the justice, "this rule of the common law, as the authorities clearly show, applied to the court of original jurisdiction which pronounced sentence, and not to an appellate court which, upon review of the proceedings in the trial court, merely affirms the final judgment where no error was committed to the prejudice of the accused, and does not render a new judgment."

Continuing, he held that the appellant failed to establish the contention that due process of law required his personal presence at the time the supreme court of Illinois entered the order affirming the judgment.

No well considered case supports that contention. Neither reason nor public policy require that the defendants shall be personally present pending proceedings in an appellate court, whose function is to determine whether there were errors in the records to the prejudice of the accused, especially where, as in this case, he had counsel to represent him in the court of review.

Under some circumstances, the appellate court may require his presence, but that presence is not essential with its jurisdiction to proceed with the case. The judgment of conviction was not vacated by the writ of error; only its execution was stayed, pending proceedings in an appellate court.

The Joliet penitentiary is made the place for the confinement of persons sentenced by the courts, so that the detention of the appellant by the warden of the penitentiary is not in violation of any right secured to him by the United States constitution. The above decision was given in the case of Schwab.

In the case of Fielden, the same doctrine is applied by the court to meet the point of absence of the accused when resentenced. The court also disposed of a constitutional point raised that the rights of the defendant under the constitution were violated by the refusal of the supreme court of Illinois to amend its record to show that he was not present in person or by counsel at the time it affirmed the judgment of the trial court and fixed a day to carry that judgment into execution. The court says:

"We take as our duty the law of Illinois to be as declared by its highest court that amendments of a record of a court in derogation of its final judgments are not permitted in that state after the expiration of the term at which the judgment was rendered. The law is applicable to all persons within the jurisdiction of that state, and its enforcement against the plaintiff in error cannot therefore be said to be a denial to him of the equal protection of the laws."

Bering Sea.

The opinion of the United States supreme court in the case of ex-parte Henry Cooper, owner of the Canadian schooner W. P. Sayward, by which the government of great Britain and the Dominion of Canada sought to obtain from the highest legal tribunal in the United States a determination of the right of the United States to exercise exclusive jurisdiction over the seal fisheries in the Bering sea was rendered by the United States supreme court.

The court first took up the question of the right of the supreme court to issue writ of prohibition against the Alaska court. It says that although the Alaska court was not mentioned in the act giving the United States supreme court power to issue writs of prohibition to review decisions of the district courts, yet, nevertheless, where the Alaska court is acting as a district court of the United States, and in an admiralty proceeding, it comes within the purview of the act giving the supreme court power to review by way of writ of prohibition.

It then takes up the next question and says that the libel on its face states that the court found that the sealing had taken place within the limits of Alaska and the waters thereof, thus making jurisdiction appear fully on the face of the proceedings.

The owner of the vessel, the court says, could have questioned the right of the court to exercise jurisdiction and try the case. He did not do so, and the court holds that it cannot now, on the ground that private rights of the owner were involved, issue a writ of prohibition to determine whether or not the Alaska court had the jurisdiction clearly asserted on the face of the proceedings.

Justice Field dissented in this case and also from a decision in favor of the United States, in the case of the schooner Sylvia Handy, an American vessel seized for illegal sealing and in which the points raised were the same as in the Sayward case.

The political question, adds the attorney general, the court did not actually decide, though it conveyed a very broad intimation that had it not had a narrower ground on which to refuse the right, it would have declined to grant the writ on this ground, as the court should not pass upon questions which were political in their nature. It said the matter had long been in controversy and negotiations between the two governments. It recognized the honor paid the court in the willingness expressed to have it review the merits of the fact as to whether or not this country's jurisdiction extends over the whole of Bering sea, but that it did not think the legal tribunals should interfere with assertions of territorial sovereignty made by the other departments of the government.

THE COAL COMBINE.

The New York Senate Committee Has Commenced Its Work.

New York, March 1.—The committee appointed by the state senate to inquire into the coal combination held its first important meeting at the Hotel Metropole this morning.

It is proposed to find out if the roads in the deal intend to advance the price of coal to consumers. President Sloan of the D. L. & W. was the first witness called. He testified as to the coal business of the road. At a recent election of his company, Messrs. Maxwell and Baker were elected directors in place of Messrs. Sage and Dillon, retired.

He did not think this change had any particular significance. He knew nothing of the rumored consolidation of the roads except what he had learned from the papers.

He was positive that the board of directors of the D. L. & W. had taken no action concerning a revision of the coal tariff in conjunction with the other roads. He said he was a director of the New Jersey Central, but denied that he held the position for the purpose of furthering any plan of consolidation.

MORE DEALS.

New York, March 1.—There were reports on Wall street to-day to the effect that the New York Central railroad had taken the leased lines of the Delaware & Hudson Canal company with the understanding that the coal business of these roads shall be run in accordance with the Reading coal combination management—practically in the same control.

ON AN OLD CHARGE.

Norwalk, O., March 1.—(Special)—Sheriff Noecker lodged in jail this morning Wm. Cox, of Chicago Junction, who was indicted by the grand jury on the charge of embezzling $224.60 belonging to the Milsom Rendering and Fertilizing company. The offense is alleged to have been committed in 1888.

ABOUT THE GOLD RESERVE.

Can it be Used to Defray Expenses?

Democrats in the Lower House Want to Know Just Where the Finances Stand.

Washington, March 1.—At the instance of Representative Dockery of Missouri, the house yesterday adopted a resolution directing the committee on judiciary to inquire and report to the house as to the right of the secretary of the treasury to use the hundred millions of gold reserve for current expenditures. In regard to the resolution Mr. Dockery said:

"I asked the house to adopt the resolution for the reason that there seems to be some doubt upon this question especially emphasized by an interview with the secretary himself published in this city, in which he is quoted as saying: 'As to the $100,000,000 of gold reserve it is held against the $350,000,000 of National bank notes to make the credit of the government impregnable, for no one would be able to get together enough greenbacks to take all the gold out of the treasury and therefore they do not take any. But these notes outstanding are legal tender and the government can and would use this gold reserve if it needs to, in a pinch. It should, therefore, appear in the debt statement as available cash.'"

In addition to this alleged opinion of the secretary as quoted, Acting Secretary of the Treasury Hon. O. L. Spaulding, in his testimony before the ways and means committee on the 23rd of January last, insisted that the hundred millions of gold reserve was available for the expenses of the government inasmuch as there is no statute against it.

"I understand the hundred millions," continued Mr. Spaulding in reply to a question of Mr. Tanner, "was first separated in 1885 from statements in the treasury. And you asked the question of the hundred millions could be used for any other purpose. I understand that the secretary so holds that he has the discretion." The acting secretary further asserted in emphatic terms that he concurred in that view. "Now, at this time, pending the examination by the judiciary committee," concluded Mr. Dockery, "I don't care to express any opinion on the question further than to say that some of the most eminent financiers of the government wholly disagree with the view that this fund can be used for current expenses."

The question upon which Mr. Dockery demands a formal decision from the judiciary committee is held by the democrats to be of the most importance not only to the appropriations committee of which Mr. Dockery is a member, but also to the house as a whole in the coming discussion of the revenue reform bills reported by the ways and means committee. If the gold reserve should be held not to be available for current expenditures, it simply means, they say, that the fifty-second congress has $100,000,000 less to draw upon in this matter of appropriations than has been generally understood to be available. The democrats say that their declaration will then be justified that the country is confronted by a deficit in the public treasury, as a result of the lavish expenditures of the fifty-first congress, and that Mr. Holman and his colleagues of the appropriations committee, must demand economy all along the line. The tariff reformers too argue that all the protection of the McKinley bill has been unable to save the public treasury from the verge of bankruptcy and point in contrast to the generous surplus that existed in the treasury at the close of the Cleveland administration as compared with the depleted condition that they insist must be presented at the close of the Harrison administration.

NEW WAR SHIPS FOR CHILI.

That Country Has Also Bought a Batch of Siege Guns—Other News.

Valparaiso, March 1.—Chile has bought new war ships in Europe. The fact was publicly announced to-day. They were purchased from the Armstrongs. One is of a similar type to the Capt. Prat.

Siege guns are now en route for the forts here and Talcahuano and also for the new fort at Quinteros Bay. New guns have likewise been ordered for forts at Iquiqui, Coquimbo, Antofagasta, Caldera and Pisagua—some forty in all.

Augustus Matta has been appointed Minister to England and will hold that office conjointly with the ministry to France, Senor Rossis returning to Chile. It is understood that the United States government has instructed Minister Egan to have the bodies of the Baltimore's murdered sailors, Charles W. Riggin and William Turnbull, brought home.

The Chilean law requires the lapse of a year before disinterment is allowed, but it is probable that exceptions will be made in these two cases.

Mr. Gladstone had a stormy passage across the channel, but he looked in robust health and full of vigor when he landed. He was accorded an esthusiastic reception by those who had assembled to greet him.

THE ANTI-TRUST LAW

To be Enforced on the Whisky Combine.

The Whole Organization Under Arrest.

Trial Will be Held in Boston, and it Will be of a Most Interesting Nature to the Whole Country.

Chicago, March 1.—It is at last definitely known that the federal grand jury at Boston on February 11 indicted all of the officers and directors of the Cattle Feeding and Distilling company, better known as the whisky trust, for violating the Sherman anti-trust law. To-day United States Marshal Hitchcock's deputies are engaged in serving warrants for the arrest of the indicted men.

The following named persons are the indicted: Joseph B. Greenhut, of Peoria, president of the trust; Herbert J. Terrell, of New York, vice president; William N. Hobart, of Cincinnati, treasurer; Warren H. Corning and Julius E. French, of Cleveland, O., Lewis H. Green, of Cincinnati, Nelson Morris, George J. Gibson and Peter J. Hennessy, of Chicago, directors. Hennessy is also secretary. He was arrested yesterday.

The other warrants issued in this district are for Greenhut, Gibson and Morris. Gibson is supposed to be in this city; Greenhut is in Peoria, but Morris is in California.

Word has been received from Peoria that Mr. Greenhut was arrested and gave bail there in the sum of $10,000 for his appearance before the United States court in Boston next Monday, where, it is understood, the cases are all to be tried.

Mr. Hennessy appeared before U. S. Commissioner Haine and was released on $10,000 bail. Mr. Gibson was not at his place of business when the officer went there with the warrant, and was not therefore arrested.

It was decided to make the arrests at this time, as Mr. Greenhut contemplated going on a visit to Europe within a day or two.

The indictment is of an omnibus character, making its charges against the officers and directors in a body. It is returned as of date of the second Tuesday in December last.

The violations of the law are charged as having been continuous since February, 1890, the defendants purchased, rented or leased the properties of competing distilling companies to the number of 70 from August 1, 1890, and up to the time of finding indictment they controlled the output of these distilleries and sold 66,000,000 gallons at prices fixed by them.

This they did "unjustly, unlawfully and oppressively to monopolize the distilling and cattle feeding to the aforesaid, the manufacture and sale of high wines, alcohol, spirits, gins and whiskies."

The indictment then sets out agreements between the trust and Dexter T. Mills, Erastus C. Gaffield and John Joyce, whereby in consideration of their purchase of trust goods they were to receive rebates of 2 cents per gallon. The prices charged, the indictment says, were largely in excess of the usual prices at which goods of the kind were sold previous to the organization of the trust.

The defendants in so doing did, it is alleged, "unlawfully and oppressively prevent and counteract the effects of free competition on the price of said spirits and did unlawfully exact and procure great sums of money in said district from the said mills and Gaffield as co-partners, and from the said Joyce and from divers other persons contrary to law. The warrant for the arrest of the whisky magnates was sworn out by Judge C. M. Horton of the department of justice at Boston.

Gibson, it is learned, went to Peoria on Saturday, and a telegram has been sent to the deputy there to arrest him.

The defense of the trust officials will be that they are a regularly incorporated company on a large scale and doing business under a charter from the state of Illinois, and that one company cannot combine to create a trust or monopoly.

The Trusts' Lawyer.

Boston, March 1.—Charles A. Prince, counsel for the whisky trust, when seen this afternoon, had received no official notification of the arrests in Chicago, and was unable to obtain any from United States District Attorney Allen. Mr. Prince said: "I fail to see the necessity of being so secretive about this matter. Is it to be supposed that men who are connected with a big corporation like this are going to run away because they fear possible arrest? It is absurd. We are not afraid to have this matter tested, and is it likely that we will run away from it? I cannot say, of course, who might be made parties to this matter locally or what arrests might be made."

Cleveland Arrests.

Cleveland, O., March 1.—Warren E. Corning and Julius French, the two directors of the whisky trust living in Cleveland, arrived home to-day from the east. They were met at the train by a United States deputy marshal, who informed them that he had warrants for their arrest. They went at once before Judge Ricks, of the United States court, and surrendered themselves, giving bail each in the sum of $10,000 for their appearance in Boston whenever they shall be wanted.

President Greenhut.

Peoria, Ill., March 1.—Haller Echart, ex-deputy United States marshal, this afternoon arrested J. B. Greenhut, president of the whisky trust, on the indictment found against him by the federal grand jury at Boston. He expected this, and promptly announced that he would give any bond for his appearance in court. He takes things philosophically, and says he presumes the indictments are due to the pressure brought to bear for political reasons in the administration. He considers the indictments the result of the Sherman anti-trust law, and in all probability based on the rebate system. He thinks the matter will simmer down to a civil suit, and does not propose to postpone his European tour. The cases will be fought to the end.

WILL NOT TAKE OUR SILVER.

So Says an Ex-Minister of Finance of France if Free Coinage Prevails.

Paris, March 1.—Senator Clamageran, formerly minister of finance, said to-day: "The United States is on the downward track in political economy, as is evidenced by the triumph of the election and the growing craze for free coinage. France had free coinage, but was forced to abandon it, and it will not prove more successful in America, where the question is agitated in the interest of owners of silver mines.

"America is the the richest country in the world and can afford the experiment of free coinage, whether it is good or not good; but the people must not delude themselves with the idea that Europe will take their silver money in any shape, especially since the McKinle yaw shuts out European products.

"They may obtain international silver congresses as often as they want them, but such conferences would be without tangible result. Europe has enough silver already.

"The first holders of the new money will use it as currency without difficulty, but when its value becomes depreciated, as is inevitable, somebody, either individuals or the United States treasury must 'pay the piper.'"

INGERSOLL AND DR. DIXON

The Former Sues the Latter for Slander.

Interesting Case to be Tried in New York.

The Great Free-Thinker Claims He Has Been Slandered From the Pulpit by an Eminent Divine.

New York, March 1.—The Rev. Dr. A. C. Dixon, pastor of the Hanson Place Baptist church, Brooklyn, has announced to his congregation that Col. Robert G. Ingersoll has begun a suit for slander against him.

"I have the summons in my pocket," continued Dr. Dixon calmly, "and I think it due that the facts be stated before they reach the outside world. As to myself, I have not a shadow of doubt as to the result. I have not sought this, but if the Lord has given me the honor to stand for the church, the Bible, the purity and sanctity of the home, I will defend them with all my might.

"It can be shown that infidelity, through its champion leader, Col. Ingersoll, has said and done everything it can against these sacred things; the facts are already established and on record. A preacher seeking to tell the truth should do so in all love and without favor.

"There will be no flinching on my part. The summons is in and the case shall come to trial. All the world shall learn the facts. They shall not be hid in the formalities of a court-room, nor smothered before any secret tribunal. The champion of free thought and free speech comes up and indicts a man for speaking into a phonograph what he firmly believed to be true. The phonograph grinds it out to a private secretary and he in turn speaks it to a reporter. Yes Col. Ingersoll believes in the freedom of speech. Yes: with reference to everything else but himself. For his character's sake it is to be hoped that he will be able to prove that he was paid for his services, even as an attorney.

"Col. Ingersoll intimates that he does not want to have the case tried before newspaper tribunals. He probably prefers the secrecy of the ancient Spanish Inquisition. He sends over the indictment in the dark, delivering it late at night and then starts for the west, so that he cannot be interviewed by reporters. God helping me, the facts which I believe to be true, shall be made known and promulgated, not only before the courts, but before the country."

As Dr. Dixon uttered these words his eyes flashed and his face wore an expression of intense indignation.

He had admitted in an interview on Saturday with a reporter that he had been served with the complaint, but requested that the fact be withheld for a day. A young man, he said, had served the summons upon him at 10 o'clock the previous night.

"It is rather significant," added the doctor, "that the champion advocate of 'more light' should do such things in the dark. The messenger appeared quite frightened and spoke in tremulous tones. When he asked what answer, if any, I had to make, I replied: 'My compliments to the colonel, and tell him I shall be happy to meet him at the time and place specified in his communication.'"

Through his attorney, Robert G. Griffin, Co. Ingersoll charges that on or about February 1, 1892, he lectured on "Ingersollism as it is" in Hanson Place Baptist church, and that he used these words:

"Infidelity fosters impure literature. A few years ago it was found that pictures and impure publications were passing through the mails. Anthony Comstock decided to stop it. On investigation, whom should he find representing publishers of impure literature, but Col. Ingersoll, paid to pollute the minds of the young of this generation."

On February 8 Col. Ingersoll sent a letter to Dr. Dixon, declaring that unless a retraction was made he would sue for slander. On February 14, the complaint continues, Dr. Dixon uttered a further slander by replying to Ingersoll's letter as follows:

"I did not use in my address of January 31 the words you quote, but I should have said them, or something like them, if in the press for time they had not escaped my mind. The reporter got them through my private secretary, from some notes that I had spoken in a phonograph in course of operation; but I am willing to be responsible for them as they appeared, for I believe them to be true (meaning that this plaintiff represented publishers of impure literature, and was paid to pollute the minds of the young of this generation). * * * *

"I believe, sir, that these charges against you (meaning this plaintiff), are true (meaning that this plaintiff represented the publishers of impure literature and was paid to pollute the minds of the young of this generation), and if you (meaning this plaintiff), desire to test them before a court of justice I will be happy indeed to represent the purity of this country as against the defenders and propagators of obscene literature" (meaning that this plaintiff is and was a defender and propagator of obscene literature).

THE LIMITS OF THE ABBEY.

The conclusion arrived at upon the inquiry undertaken by the royal commission, assisted by the business aptitude of the clerk of the Works was, that, using every available space for the purpose, not more than 90 to 95 interments may in future take place (in Westminster Abbey). At the western end of the nave there is probably room for 45 coffins; 20 more might be laid in the concrete which supports the wall at the northwestern corner of the north aisle, and possibly a dozen more coffins might be added to the "mixed parties" in the larger vaults not yet full. That, taking the average of persons deemed eligible for admission to the abbey in recent times, would provide for all the just needs of the next hundred years. Of the various projects submitted for supplying adjuncts to the abbey that might be used as charnel houses, the commissioners recommend the erection of a monumental chapel on a vacant piece of ground, the site of the old refectory, lying immediately south of the great cloister and parallel to the nave of the abbey. But there is not much enthusiasm in the recommendation, nor has there, since it was submitted to the queen, been any movement towards carrying it into effect. There seems, in truth, a disposition to extend to the unborn future the privilege of burying its dead, already claimed for the dead past.—North American Review.

A VERY HAPPY NEW YEAR.

It was the last week of the year, when one morning I read aloud this advertisement:

Wanted.—To buy, an antique Desk. Liberal price will be paid for one satisfactory in every respect.

"Oh, Lucille!" I cried, "this is your chance. You can now retrieve your fallen fortunes." And I tossed the newspaper across the breakfast table.

Lucile read the advertisement again, and looked over with a sigh to where, between the windows, and old desk, such as the advertisement described, occupied the post of honor.

"I should feel as if I were selling my grandma's bones," she said decisively.

"Well, I don't believe your grandmother would blame you, if she knew—"

Here Ruth stopped me with a look, and began telling something that had happened in the store that day. Ruth was saleslady in the cloak department of one of our great city establishments. I taught school, and Lucile had been the French instructor in a young ladies' academy. We kept house together, until quite recently, in two rooms in the third story of a New York house. We had our own furniture, and cooked our meals over a gas stove. To girls who had been motherless from childhood, and to whom the word "home" was a word with no meaning, such a life was very pleasant.

Lucile was a dark-eyed, graceful French girl, who had once seen better days, though she was quite reticent, except to us, about it. She was so innocent and beautiful that Ruth and I loved and guarded her as if she had been our younger sister. Ruth was sturdy, independent, and New England born, and so true-hearted and brave that we looked up to her in everything and felt safe under her protection. As for me, I was Mollie, born in the sunny south, wilful, high-tempered, but capable of deep feeling, they said. The war had ruined the fortunes of my family, and my life had been full of hardships since.

I do not think three girls could have been more unlike. And yet we led a very tranquil, happy life, until a month or two before the evening of which I write, when a cloud had appeared on our horizon.

That night Lucile came home flushed and indignant. It took but little questioning to discover the cause. The assistant principal of the school had long annoyed Lucile with his attentions, and her studied avoidance of him did not seem to make any difference. He dogged her steps, wrote her notes, and sent her flowers till the poor girl was nearly crazy. At last, unable to endure it any longer, she had refused him peremptorily. Two days later she received her dismissal, and that, too, without a recommendation.

"Never mind," said Ruth encouragingly, "you need rest, and Mollie and I need a housekeeper. This is your home, you know."

The girl's dark eyes filled with tears.

"You are very kind," she sobbed out. "But ah! it is this that makes me think of the old days in France, when grandma was alive. We lived in the country, you know, in such a beautiful little chateau. And the neighbors were so kind, especially those in the next place. Ah! what pleasant days I had," she added, recalling it with a sigh, "playing in the meadows with their son Henri, and what pretty fetes they gave. But then grandma lost her fortune, she was too proud to stay where she was known, and so came out to America and died. You know the rest. Oh, you are very kind!"

We tried after this to get her another situation, but were not successful. Finally I found two of my scholars who wanted to take French lessons, and this kept up her hopes.

That night after I showed Lucile the advertisement, she left the table and went over to the desk, passing her hand lovingly over it. It was a quaint old-fashioned thing, inlaid with different kinds of wood, in the style of the early part of the last century. It had belonged to Lucile's grandmother, and to the family before, and was the only relic she possessed of her happy child-life in France.

I knew what her feelings were when I suggested the idea of selling it, but I knew still better that she needed the money sorely. There was an unpaid doctor's bill that haunted her, and which Ruth and I dare not pay because of her pride.

The next night was New Year's Eve, and when Ruth and I came home, the desk was gone. There were traces of tears on Lucile's cheeks, but she made no complaint. We said nothing; but we felt all the evening as if there had been a funeral in our little home.

The next day Lucile told us all about it. It seemed that some gentleman was furnishing his house in the antique style, and had commissioned his agent to find him a desk. The agent came, and looked at it; was delighted, as well he might be; paid a large sum, and had it carried away.

That eveing Lucile sat playing low, soft airs on the little upright piano we had rented, when a rap on the door started us. I rose to open it. A tall, handsome, young man, with an unmistakably foreign air, stood there. He bowed with high-bred grace, and inquired with a slight accent for the young lady who had an antique writing desk the day before.

Lucile, who had started at the sound of the voice, came forward. Her dark eyes shone; the color flushed into her cheeks.

"Henri!" she cried. She had extended her hand, but drew it back as instantly, and stood there, blushing and trembling.

The gentleman started, gazed eagerly at her, and then clasped her hand in both of his.

"Lucile, Lucile!" he cried. "Mon Dieu, what a pleasure!" His eyes shone with delight as he spoke.

Lucile, after a moment, turned to us.

"Oh! girls, only think," she said; "it is Henri, my old playmate. You remember my telling you of the boy who was so kind to me. Often and often we children played in the library where the old desk stood. Many an hour we have spent puzzling our heads over its quaint inlaid ornaments. Ah! the dear old days—"

She borke down. She could speak no more. The memory of those old days, and of all her troubles since she had been left alone in the world, overpowered her. She turned away her head to hide her emotion.

Monsieur Lamont pressed her hand, bowed over it, kissed it in his foreign fashion. Then looking around at us, he told the rest of the story,—how he had come to this country for a few years to establish a branch business for a Paris firm: how his mother had come with him; how he had purchased and fitted up a house to suit her fancies; how, when his agent had brought him the desk, his mother and he were struck with the resemblance it bore to the one they had seen so often in France.

"We were both sure it was the same," he said. "There could not be two; and behold! I am here."

Madame Lamont came, too, the next day. We were not so blind but we could see the little romance which was unfolding under our eyes, and we rejoiced that such a happy future was to be the fate of our dear girl.

Never did the course of love run smoother. The mother and son were of one mind, and hurried matters as fast as possible. So it was not many months before Ruth and I were alone, and Lucile was mistress of a beautiful home, all her own.

In a few years they go back to France, and though we shall miss Lucile, we shall know she is living once more in the dear old chateau, which her husband meantime has purchased.

So the New Year's Eve that opened so sadly ended in a happy New Year.

THE AURORA.

There used to be a humorous story current in college circles relating how a sophomore who had been out on the night before was called up in class-room by his professor to tell what he knew about the aurora borealis. "I used to know what caused it," said the befuddled young man, "but I have forgotten." "What a pity," responded the professor, "that the only man who ever knew anything about the aurora has forgotten his knowledge!" This story is timely in view of the statement of an Indiana professor that the northern lights are "simply of electric or magnetic origin, due to some mysterious interchange of these forces between the earth and the sun." This is an explanation that explains with great lucidity.

Prevalence of Kidney Disease.
The large demand, in this and foreign lands, for BUCHU-PAIBA is the best evidence of its reliability as a remedy in Kidney and Genito-Urinary diseases, affections of the Bladder, &c. The increase in Kidney Complaints in this country in recent years has been arrested to a great extent through the merits of this new remedy BUCHU-PAIBA, which without doubt is the best known treatment for irritation, inflammation and catarrh of the Bladder, and the various diseased Genito-Urinary discharges. It is put up in convenient bottles that sell for $1.00 at Druggists or Chemists, or may be had of the manufacturer, express prepaid, by forwarding $1.00 to E. S. Wells, Jersey City, N. J.

Cockroaches, Ants,
Beetles, water bugs. The most effective and permanent remedy is—for two or three nights to sprinkle ROUGH ON RATS dry powder unmixed, on, in, about and down the sink and drain pipe; scatter it well but thinly all over the sink. First thing in the morning wash it all away down the drain pipe, repeat two or three nights, when all the insects from garret to cellar will disappear. The secret of this is in the fact that wherever the bugs or insects may be during the day, they must go to the sinks for water during the night. They can't stand ROUGH ON RATS in their water. This is the quickest, most effective and satisfactory remedy. ROUGH ON RATS being a poison, it should be used in this way only at night and washed away early in the morning. Another way is to mix a tablespoonful of ROUGH ON RATS with a half pound of brown sugar. Sprinkle it on rear of cupboard shelves or on plates, or on sheets of paper placed high out of reach of children.

HAVE YOU THE GRIPPE?
Many People Have It and Do No Know it.—How to Recognize the Symptoms and How to Treat Them.
Hundreds of people have the Grippe who do not know it. Not necessarily the final stages, but the first stages. They feel pains in the head, and a bad taste in the mouth, get tired and despondent, have chilly sensations, limbs and muscles ache. In some cases these things are overlooked. In most cases perhaps they are considered simply a slight cold. In nearly every case they indicate the coming of Grippe.
There is but one thing to do when these symptoms appear, and that is to take prompt and vigorous measures, to fortify nature to repel the enemy. A little well directed effort at just the right time will accomplish very much more than labored efforts afterwards. There is but one thing to be done, and that is to use a pure stimulant, something that will promptly arrest, and in no way injure, something endorsed by scientists, recommended by physicians, and popular because so efficient—Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. Two years ago, and last year when the Grippe was raging, this was the standard remedy used, and recommended by the profession. It did more to prevent the Grippe than all other known or recommended remedies. It preserved many people in health who would otherwise have been grievously sick, perhaps even worse. It is as efficient to-day as ever. It should be borne in mind that other so-called whiskies may not be so efficient, and if any dealer asserts that such whiskies are the same, distrust him at once. There is but one medicinal whiskey and that is Duffy's Pure Malt.

WORTH $300,000 AND A TRAMP.

The courts have been asked to appoint a guardian for John Swim, an aged wanderer, who, though worth $300,000, has led the life of a tramp from boyhood. He has begged the most of what he possesses, and is so miserly that he will not clothe himself properly.

A week ago he was found by the roadside almost frozen to death. He owns farms in several counties, and is known all over the state as the "wealthy tramp." He once lived at the almshouse at Lancaster for a year before the authorities discovered they had been entertaining the richest man in the county, and expelled him. Swim is 97 years old, but quite hale, and has engaged a lawyer to resist the motion for a guardian. —Philadelphia Press.
